The resolution which called for repeal of the Volstead Act was voted down by the convention with only slight discussion on the floor. The resolution calling for repeal of the 18th Amendment was also voted down with only a few negative votes.

Delegate Edward Flore, president of the Hotel Employees Union, one of the sponsors of the resolution, spoke from the floor in favor of the repeal proposal.

EXPLOSION INJURES 33 IN LOS ANGELES, CAL.

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES, Cal., Oct. 17.—A terrific gas explosion early today wrecked the fourth floor of the Garment Capitol building at Eighth and Santee streets in the heart of the industrial district injuring 33 persons and shaking the adjacent business district.

Seven nearby buildings were damaged and hundreds of thousands of dollars damage done. There are 24 clothing factories in the 12 story Garment Capitol building and several hundred workers, men and women, were hurled about in their loft rooms by the blast. Every ambulance in the city was summoned and many private automobiles commandeered by police to carry injured persons to the hospitals.

Work Just Started
The morning shift had just begun work when the blast occurred. Besides those injured by flying debris, hurled against machinery and scorched by the flames, scores of others suffered concussion shocks, according to medical attendants. Firemen said had flames burst out following the explosion, the casualty list would have been terrific in the crowded loft rooms. Five hundred policemen, arriving in speed cars, formed a cordon around the wrecked district driving back thousands of curious persons who sought to invade the area. Plate glass windows were shattered for many blocks around and pedestrians were endangered by the collapse of several huge electrical signs, torn from nearby buildings. An unidentified woman crossing the street more than a block from the Garment Capitol building was probably fatally injured when she was struck by a heavy piece of glass.

Lieutenant I. A. Woodring, Arrives In New York With Japanese Treaty Papers

WILL BE SHIPPED ABOARD LEVIATHAN

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—The text of the Japanese ratification of the London Naval Treaty today was in New York, ready to be carried across the Atlantic to London tomorrow on the liner Leviathan. The ratification was brought to New York after a transatlantic flight from Victoria, B. C., by Lieut. Irving A. Woodring.

Woodring arrived last night in a plane piloted by Lieut. Stanley Oimstead.

At Cleveland, where he stopped yesterday afternoon, Woodring learned of the death 24 hours earlier of Lieut. William V. Caldwell. Caldwell was in an escort plane when the treaty document was picked up at Victoria, B. C., and started with him on his eastward flight. Caldwell was killed when his plane crashed in a raging mountain blizzard near Cheyenne, Wyo.

Woodring was caught in the same storm but managed after two forced landings to reach Cheyenne and proceed to Omaha and later to Chicago and Cleveland.

The document will be turned over here to the custody of Pierre De La Boal, Assistant Chief of the Division of Western European Affairs of the State Department, who will sail on the Leviathan. In London the ratification will be handed to Ambassador Matsuda.

Youth On Bicycle Injured When Struck By Automobile

DRIVER IS HELD UNDER CHARGES

Ralph Phillips, aged 13, son of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Phillips, 703 Wilmington avenue, is in a seriously injured condition in the New Castle hospital as a result of a collision late Thursday afternoon between his bicycle and the automobile of Ralph E. Greene, 397 Highland avenue, Highland Park, Detroit, Mich., which occurred at Craig and North Jefferson streets. Because of the serious condition of the accident victim, who had his scalp torn from his skull as well as sustaining a severe contusion of the left eye, and has been in a delirious condition ever since the accident, Ralph E. Greene, driver of the automobile involved in the accident, is being held in the county jail on a charge of aggravated assault and battery made by William R. Phillips, father of the injured boy, before Alderman Green.

Bail is $500.
Bail was fixed at $500, which Greene was unable to provide, and in default of the same he is being held pending the outcome of the hearing, which cannot be held for some time, owing to the condition of the injured boy.

The boy was riding south on North Jefferson street at the time of the accident and was in the act of making a right hand turn into Craig street, as Mr. Greene, enroute north on Jefferson street, was also making a left hand turn into Craig street. The bicycle and automobile came together with considerable force, the boy being thrown from his bicycle and terribly injured. The automobile ran into the curb.

Three Trainmen Are Killed When Engines Collide

Two Engines Conveying Mail Coaches Crash At Cleveland—Four Injured

TRAINMEN TRAPPED BY SUDDEN IMPACT

Railroad Officials Arrive On Scene To Conduct Rigid Investigation

(International News Service)
CLEVELAND, Oct. 17.—Three men, composing the crew of a westbound locomotive to Linndale, were killed and four others were injured here early today when two shuttle mail trains crashed head-on on the New York Central right-of-way beneath the Fulton Road bridge.

The dead are: Henry Sproule, 74, engineer; Charles Graf, fireman, 65, and Jerry Dixon, 43, conductor. The injured are: Frank McCarthy, 58, engineer of the eastbound locomotive; Clarence Sheffield, 35, a fireman of the eastbound engine; William F. Dee, flagman of the westbound train, and Thomas Henahan, flagman of the eastbound train. The accident occurred, according to Henahan, just after the eastbound train had rounded the curve at the Leaky brewery.

"We saw the headlight of the approaching train," Henahan said. "But it looked as though it was on the next track. It wasn't until we straightened out that we found that the approaching train was on our track too. It was too late then."

The two locomotives crashed with a terrific impact.

Railroad officials arrived at the scene shortly after the accident to conduct an investigation to determine the responsibility for the crash.

Dixon was preparing to leap when the engines crashed, it was said. His body was caught between the wall of the cab and the bulkhead of the tender. Rescuers worked for more than two hours before they were able to extricate it from the tangled wreckage of iron.

Sproule and Graf were instantly killed. Their bodies were found lying on the floor of their engine cab. McCarthy was badly burned by a heavy spray of scalding water which gushed forth as the boiler of his locomotive burst. His condition was reported as critical this morning. Sheffield was also seriously scalded.

The eastbound train was bringing one mail coach from Bellefontaine, O., at the time of the crash. The westbound locomotive was taking two mail coaches to be coupled to a passenger train bound for St. Louis. None of the mail coaches was derailed or damaged in the accident.

Witchcraft Is Doctor's Theme

Dr. Theodore Diller, Of Pittsburgh Makes Address Here Thursday

Under the auspices of the Lawrence County Medical Society Dr. Theodore Diller, a noted neurologist of Pittsburgh, addressed a group of people in the assembly room of the Jameson nurses' home Thursday evening.

For many years Dr. Diller has interested himself in the history of witchcraft as it was practiced in the Old World and in the early American colonies. In an interesting manner he traced the history of witchcraft down from the 13th century, through King James and the Reformation, on down to the days of Cotton Mather in New England.

Emotionalism was due to the practice of witchcraft, in the opinion of Dr. Diller, and the prevalence of quack doctors today is made possible by the credulity of moderns to believe in miracles, and the fact that witchcraft is not entirely eradicated from the world. Substantiating this statement, he cited the "hex trials" in York county about two years ago.

His lecture was so far from the usual path of lecturers that the audience found it most interesting. Dr. Diller was brought here through the efforts of Dr. John B. Foster, chairman of the entertainment committee of the society. He was introduced by the president, Dr. D. C. Lindley.

Following the lecture a light lunch was served the guests by the nurses of the Jameson Memorial hospital.

WINTRY BLASTS HEADED TOWARDS LAWRENCE COUNTY

wintry blast coming from the western storm-swept areas would sweep into western Pennsylvania today, bringing with it a cold, biting rain and a falling mercury.

Although topocasts and even greatcoats were the dress uniform for the day no sudden transformation in weather conditions was foreseen. Blizzard-like conditions prevailing in the northwest will not prevail here and the temperature, while dropping, probably will hover not far away from the 40 degree mark, forecasters said.

Heavy Fog

A heavy fog prevailed over the eastern section of Pennsylvania this morning causing numerous automobile accidents. The ensuing warm temperatures and haze atmosphere, however, were slated to give way to showers and much cooler temperature. Saturday will be "fair and cooler" according to the forecast of the U. S. Weather Bureau at Philadelphia. The same conditions were predicted for South Jersey, Delaware and the eastern shore of Maryland.

While shirt-sleeves were the dress uniform in central Pennsylvania, they will not long continue the Harrisburg weather bureau predicted.

Confirming reports that colder temperatures and showers will combine to send the mercury downward, the weather bureau at the State Capital predicted that the thermometers in the central section would drop from the middle 70's today to around 50 and 48 tonight.

The unusually warm weather obtaining in the central Pennsylvania, it was predicted, will fade over the weekend.

Showers were expected for the section late today or tonight, but they will be light rains and are not expected materially to break the drought which has gripped several parts of the central valleys.

Cloudy skies prevailed over most of central Pennsylvania today.

The following took place some time before the Volstead act, but it occurred in a state where the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquor was forbidden by local option. Contrary to the operation of the law, Stooks sold to Jim Dillhooley a quantity of liquor. For some reason Dillhooley delayed payment of the bill. A few months later the local option statute was repealed. Stooks again sought Dillhooley to pay the account, and did succeed in getting some money from him, and also a promise to pay the balance, but again Dillhooley seemed to have forgotten about it. At last, exhausted from appealing, Stooks filed suit.

bridge is fixed soon, wet weather will cause automobile accidents. It is reported in city hall that it has not yet been remedied.

George Wyman, traffic officer, East Washington street and Croton avenue, according to reports is on the job every minute and no reports of "double parking" are made. He watches and believes prevention is better than a fine.

"Now is the time to clean out those pipes in your driveway" according to Stanley Treser, superintendent of the department of streets. "You'll have better gutters if you do" Treser announced today.

Autoists should help rather than retard street car schedules. It is noticed that many of them retard operation of street cars. They evidently forget that a street car can't detour and patrons may have no automobiles.

Why not organize a hikers club here? This is the season when the rural section is filled with beauty. One in search of a sight of what nature can do should hike through Cascade Park or along the Slipper Rock.

Although the basement at city hall could be arranged as a police pistol range no steps have been taken to sharpen the marksmanship of the police. State police must practice regularly and submit reports to superiors.

New Castle citizens will be given their last opportunity to subscribe to the Community Chest during the next few days. With $4,000 yet needed, it means that a lot of people who have not yet given must do so to put the chest over the top. Here is an obligation that all good citizens of New Castle should meet.

New Castle postal employees are making ringers while the sun shines, these days. The old pastime of barnyard golf still holds plenty of fascination for them, judging from the number who are playing at it each afternoon.

Members of the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, are circulating petitions to have the "Star Spangled Banner" recognized by Congress at the national anthem. In view of the fact that no better one has come to light yet, we can't see why the piece is not officially recognized.

From weather reports from places in the Middle West Squaw Winter in all its fury is on its way, and we are to have a cold snap for a time. One consolation however, is that we may look forward to the period known as Indian summer.

Pa News noted that this morning's shower, followed by a little breeze, brought the leaves down in great quantities. The wet leaves on the street make traffic perilous for the street car men, as it is difficult to get a grip on the tracks when they are covered by leaves.

Pa News notices that automobile owners are again becoming negligent about parking in the alleys. One place they give a wide berth is Sycamore alley, near the city building. That's a little too close to the police station.

In spite of the fact that the city has provided a free public parking ground, along the banks of the Neshannock at the foot of Mercer street, about the only time this spot is used much is on Saturday evenings. The place will hold several hundred cars, but even two squares from Washington street seems too far for most motorists to walk.

Pa News notes that the Mercer street hill is again quite rough. The "snow" which was placed on the street this summer laid the dust, but it did not form a hard surface like oil does. This has caused many small holes in the roadway which now resembles a washboard.

New Castle and Lawrence County citizens who aided in the campaign for establishment of the community hotel, The Castleton, in this city, are much gratified at the report of the management at the director's meeting showing the fine financial condition that the hotel is now in.

Welcome Woodward High! New Castle is glad to welcome the Toledo Ohio gridders and their following for the game tonight. May the best team win!

Notice of Chief of Police C. C. Horner that Hallowe'en pranks will not be tolerated before the last night of October, certainly gets a hearty second from thousands of residents of the city. The fact that Hallowe'en comes this month, gives no license for gangs to carry out malicious mischief programs for two or three weeks that would not be tolerated on any other occasion.

Rudy Valee was on the air and a couple of New Castle female enthusiasts couldn't resist when they heard the music floating from a downtown radio—and that is the reason that the two began dancing right there on the sidewalk, to the amusement of a crowd of passers-by. Oh Rudy, you should have known better.

the river within the last few years was started.

Threats Are Made. The Henry brothers were arrested for the murder of three-year-old Garland Bailey, who was killed several weeks ago. Clyde McBee, James Dunn and Mrs. Bailey were also arrested, charged with taking part in the murder.

When first arrested the men were placed in the Middlebourne jail but were spirited to this jail when threats of mob violence became serious. Again late yesterday threats of lynching were heard here and an extra detail of police was thrown around the jail.

Further investigation of the island shack and of the entire island was to be made today by Sheriff Baker.

Sheriff Skeptical. NEW MARTINSVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 17.—Sheriff William C. Baker today declared that he attached but little significance to women's clothing found in the dilapidated shack occupied by Charles and Ray Henry, brothers, who with three other persons are being held in connection with the death of three-year-old Garland Bailey.

Discovery of the clothing hidden in the shack had given rise to rumors that Sheriff Baker would investigate the possibility that girls had been lured to the shack and had never again been heard from.

The sheriff, however, said all indications were that the clothing had been pilfered and had been hidden in the shack by persons whose identities are unknown to county authorities.

STAR LORE

WHY THE EARTH SLOWS DOWN IN ITS ROTATION

By Arthur Dev. Carpenter

As strange as it might seem to one who never thought of it before, it is the moon with the assistance of the sun, that is slowing down the rotation of the earth upon its axis. By its gravitational influence the moon produces a drag upon the earth's spin. The moon lifts the tides and drags them from east to west, while the spin of the earth is from west to east. In time the earth's day will be lengthened to that of the time of the lunar month when the earth will continuously present the same face to the moon, just as the moon now presents the same face continuously to the earth.

Crime Never Pays

WHERE IS THE DOVE

PITY the poor dove of peace if it is caught in Europe today. These are bellicose days on the continent which learned so many sad lessons from the World War and has signed enough peace treaties, pacts, covenants and protocols in the last decade to be unconscious from peace unconsciousness.

Just when the European nations thought they had that little thing called peace under their finger they found they had caught another war bug. People who try too hard to be sweet to each other usually end at each other's throat.

Here is the peace picture as we see it over there at this reading:

Herr Hitler, leader of the new German Fascism, blandly proposes to overthrow the government, remake the constitution, repudiate the new reparations plan and cut off the heads of the German statesmen who accepted it.

The French are showing off their full military strength in maneuvers on the Italian border.

Mussolini is encouraging an alliance between Germany and Austria as a threat to France.

The Poles talk of war with Russia like people in our market places talk of prohibition.

Peace, where art thou?

SURPLUS ACRES

The existing economic instability and disorganization over large rural sections of the United States are essentially the outgrowth of a land policy which threw enormous areas into private ownership far beyond the needs of the population for agricultural land.

Distribution of free land was, in its day, an important contribution to the prosperity of the country. Any American citizen could make a good living off the acres offered him by the government. But now that agriculture has become intensified and the farmer produces for an industrial population as well as for himself, the abundance of land under cultivation has brought the rural population to grief.

Free land developed the Middle and Far West. It made possible the building of transcontinental railroads early in the country's development. This generation is paying the price.

A suggested solution for the problem is the repurchase by the federal government of land of questionable or no agricultural value to be taken out of production. Such a policy carried to its logical conclusion would, it is estimated, reduce the acreage under cultivation by one third. That makes it, like so many remedies, too formidable to tackle. Where would the government get the money and what would it do with the ejected farmers?

What is most likely to happen is that the country will let the law of the survival of the fittest take its course, which, in time, would see the abandonment of the last non-profit-bearing acre.

THE COFFEE REVOLUTION

Revolution boils again in Brazil and coffee, as usual, is the brew that inspires the flames. Coffee supplies the bulk of Brazil's revenues; it is the basis for most of Brazil's wealth, both national and individual; it is the energy that makes the wheels of Brazilian industry whirl on and on. Behind the cup that cheers the American breakfast table the intriguing figure of conspiracy, revolt and politics is clearly visible.

Brazil is seething, in theory, on its coffee policy. One faction, which happens to be in power, favors restrictions on shipments so as to control the world price; another faction, that perennially flares in revolt, wants to dump coffee indiscriminately on the market regardless of price because that would empty Brazil's coffee warehouses and do away with the perpetual surplus stored there. Both sides have their reasons for their stands.

The party in power holds to the theory that higher prices for less coffee is good economics. The revolutionary thought is that lower prices, with all the coffee marketed, is the better policy. In the latter case the theory is that Brazilian labor is cheap, its coffee production prolific and quantity at lower prices would return more money to growers than the present system of quota releases based on higher world price levels.

To the consumer of coffee the latter theory appeals because it would mean cheaper beverage. To the dealer in coffee and coffee futures, the former policy is more desirable because it means larger profits.

Because the revolution is assuming serious proportions, with some possibility of success, coffee prices on the New York futures market have fallen this week almost to the record post-war levels of 1921. They are only slightly above 5 cents a pound. Banks and exchanges in Brazil are closed. The country once again boils with its own primary brew.—The Columbus, Ohio, State Journal.

PERFECTING THE AIRMAIL

When commercial aviation was being dreamed about the far-seeing wisecracks solemnly counseled that airplanes would always be the slaves of the elements, taking to the air only with the permission of the winds and snows. They have received their answer from aviation sooner than even the most optimistic expected.

In a remarkably short time the airmail service has reached a point of efficiency which compares favorably with the standards maintained by other postal facilities.

The New York-Atlanta line is representative. It has been operating with an efficiency of 99.79 per cent. Of a total of 158,679 miles of flying scheduled in August, the planes flew all but 338.

Already close to perfection, the airmail service should readily attain that goal when radio equipment is available to full length of all routes.

What are the fruits of this dependable and speedy service. Public patronage of the airmail has mounted steadily with the perfection of the service. Business between the terminals of the air lines has improved. And greater things in commercial aviation are assured.

His definition of intoxicating is "A beverage which consumed in the ordinary way would induce a temporary disturbance of physical conditions and behavior."

Doctors have said that a child can absorb in a day, harmlessly as much as two ounces of alcohol. If that be true, that child in a day could drink more than three quarts of four per cent beer, without injury. But all that is theory. He who drinks now must drink bootleg whiskey or "needed" beer, into which bad alcohol has been pumped with a hypodermic needle.

You have often said that she should marry a young man of established position as to line and environment.

You prefer the man who is working with his father with possibility of his being taken in as a partner or a young man with abundant means to support her.

Not very often do you stress the fact that she should strongly love the man she plans to marry.

Of course you think that if she can find one who meets requirements and loves him too she will be fortunate.

But your greatest concern is as to whether the young man can furnish luxuries you want her to enjoy.

There may have been many you called fine fellows, but their "prospects" did not meet your desires.

For that reason you did not approve and so expressed yourself to daughter.

How much of this world's goods do you and your life partner possess when you were married and started a home?

You married for love irrespective of prospects at that time. You both had health and ambition and you are not sorry now.

Export Of Helium Proposed For Lighter-Than-Air Craft

Americans Are Strongly Inclined To Believe That Present Volume Of Production In This Country Warrants Sharing Safety Gas With Others

The recommendation made by Rear Admiral Moffett, chief of the United States bureau of naval aeronautics, that the law forbidding the exportation of helium gas to foreign countries be repealed in the interest of humanity and the development of lighter-than-air craft falls on sympathetic ears in America, horrified at the recent destruction of the British dirigible R-101.

"The virtual certainty that the highly inflammable hydrogen with which the dirigible was inflated was responsible, at least for the large loss of life, emphasizes anew the unsuitability of this dangerous gas for aircraft," says the SAINT PAUL PIONEER PRESS, and it feels that, despite selfish considerations, this country should not continue to prohibit helium export when it might avert air tragedies like that which befell the R-101. In the opinion of the MORGANTOWN DOMINION NEWS, the accident "demonstrates that dirigible operation with anything except non-inflammable gas is entirely too hazardous for anything short of emergency use, such as might be required by wartime activities." As the CLEVELAND NEWS puts it: "Substitution of helium for hydrogen, in all airships constructed from now on would seem to be a step in protecting lives, and advancing the art of air transport in all parts of the world."

That the law against exporting helium was at one time just and necessary is conceded. But has that time passed? Many newspapers think so and give their reasons for this opinion. The NEWARK EVENING NEWS explains: "When that law was put in effect, the cost of producing helium was high, and the known sources were limited. Insufficient was produced for the needs of our own dirigibles, and for a while the gas had to be piped from the Shenandoah to the Los Angeles, one craft earthbound while the other employed the helium. Today," this paper continues, "a surplus of the isolated element has caused the two great government plants at Fort Worth and Amarillo in Texas to shut down from time to time, never to work at full capacity."

The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS also is sure that "we have more helium gas than we need," and the JERSEY CITY JOURNAL quotes naval officers as believing "the gas could be exported without jeopardizing our supply."

Expressing its confidence that "when it comes to acting for the saving of life, the American people have never taken a selfish or timid view," the PITTSBURGH POST-GAZETTE approves the export of the gas. "If America can contribute anything to the science of aviation and to the preservation of human life, in times of peace it seems that the suggestion of Rear Admiral Moffett should be given careful consideration," advises the HAMILTON EVENING JOURNAL. Supporting this viewpoint also the DANBURY EVENING NEWS points out that "other nations are forced to use inflammable gases now, and will in the future, unless we come to their rescue with our helium." Such action by America "accords with the dictates both of humanity and of scientific progress," says the BUFFALO EVENING NEWS, while that "it seems no more than international civility" is the opinion of the RICHMOND NEWS-LEADER.

To those who fear that the gas would some day be used against us, the HARTFORD DAILY COURANT says: "As long as we continue to hold the key to the world's helium resources, we control the extent to which that gas may be used," this fact putting us "in a position to make certain that the gas is exported in amounts sufficient only for the commercial needs of the important countries. At any time we could break off such exports."

In similar vein speaks the INDIANAPOLIS STAR: "If we were at war, or likely to become involved in war with any nation, it would be the part of policy and national safety to prevent the export of helium. We are not at war," continues this paper, "and none of the airships under construction are in any danger of becoming a menace to us." The MONROE EVENING NEWS suggests that "the exportation of an effective lifting gas that has all the properties of safety might very properly be left as a discretionary function of our war department with foreign nations understanding that it is a favor that might be withdrawn at our pleasure."

While helium is non-explosive, an popular conception that it would not burn if ignited should be dispelled in the opinion of the TERRE HAUTE STAR, which says: "An airship buoyed up by helium would not explode, as did the British dirigible but it would burn if once afire, as many of the materials in most such craft are light and inflammable." Then, are dirigibles dependable even though the use of helium should become universal? Discussing this question the ERIE DISPATCH-HERALD remarks: "It would be idle to deny that this disaster, following a dozen other similar peace-time catastrophes with loss of life, will deal a severe blow to the prospects of aviation by lighter-than-air machines. Apparently they have some distance to go before becoming reasonably safe for passenger travel," asserts this paper.

"Will new confidence be justified by the use of helium, plus that additional factor of safety, Diesel engines burning heavy oil?" asks the ST. LOUIS DAILY GLOBE-DEMOCRAT.

"It is not the American way, not indeed the way of civilized man, to let initial dangers and failures hamper the fullest possible development of new forms of transportation," concludes the PHILADELPHIA EVENING BULLETIN.

THE SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE, referring to other disasters, feels that "accidents, sometimes dreadful ones, cannot be avoided," and asserts that "every step of progress has been marked by tragic lessons."

THE AKRON BEACON JOURNAL quotes the Zeppelin experts of its own city as pointing out that "fins and control surfaces of the ship were smaller than Zeppelin builders have found necessary," and consequently the great air liner did not respond well to its helmsman." That paper adds that "the one clear presumption is that the safety of airships depends most upon the skill of their commanders, their instinct of knowing what to do in time of dire emergency, and the sturdiness of materials and design employed in construction."

While recognizing the value of the proposal to supply helium from the United States, the TORONTO DAILY STAR says: "Canada in Alberta is wasting 25 million dollars' worth of natural gas every year and one-third of one per cent of the vast quantities turned loose is helium." Prof. McLennan is responsible for the statement that Canada has enough helium to meet all the needs of the empire. Canada ought to do something about it."

THE TIMES CHANGES A page advertisement in a German magazine bears across the top in large type these words, "Visit Belgium." Below there are pictures of famous Belgian cathedrals, museums, art palaces, and the international exposition at Antwerp celebrating 100 years of Belgium's independence. Another line in large type reads: "Excellent travel connections with all of Germany—entry free."

Sixteen years ago the Germans marched into little Belgium, killing and plundering as they went. Belgium is now inviting Germans into its country.

So soon do Time and Business eradicate the wounds of War.

First Church To Improve Organ

Erection Of New Console At Downtown Presbyterian Starts At Once

A new console for the magnificent organ in the First Presbyterian church here, one which will make it one of the most completely equipped organs in this part of the state, will be constructed immediately it was announced today. A contract for the work has just been let by the congregation's board of trustees.

The new console, it was said, will be ready for use about December 15. Local representatives of the organ firm have already launched their preliminary work and the installation will be brought about as fast as possible.

Built to the specifications drawn up by T. H. Webber, Jr., organist of the church, the new console will be of the Skinner stop-knob type. Seventy stops and 30 couplers as well as 45 combination pistons will feature the new equipment. The organ at present is one of the finest in the city and with the proposed addition Mr. Webber will find it possible to use all the tonal resources of the organ.

Provision is being made for additions to the instrument by having extra stop-knobs added.

The First church organ bears a history, inasmuch as it was built originally many years ago when the pipes were made by artists in that line, and as a result the tone quality is almost unsurpassed. Seven years ago the organ was rebuilt and more stops added.

Journalism Club, Lester Nord, Tallo Puromaki, Leona Van Tassel.

The Journalism Club will conduct the school news and edit the school paper. Special reporters are:

Assemblies, Carrie Yeropol.

Clubs, Blanche Howard, Sports, Eva Johnson and Frank Stanish.

The Novelty Club has planned a picnic for Thursday evening, October 23.

Volley Ball contests have opened the program of intra-mural sports sponsored by the health instructors. Four games have been played to date. Following volley ball will come basketball, then play ground ball and later a series of elimination tournaments including handball, horse shoes, and perhaps tennis. These games are to be held during lunch hours.

Girls' hockey has been ushered into the health program. The first practice was held on the new football field.

Announcement was made of the coming lyceum program conducted by the Bessemer Booster Club. The first number will be held on October 23, and the second on October 28. A group of five numbers has been arranged, and an attendance as large as last year's is expected.

The first six weeks report period ends next Tuesday, October 21. Tests are being held and grade cards will be given students on Wednesday, October 29.

A reorganization of library books for the study hall has been made. Some sixty copies of books relating to the various school departments have been put on the shelves. Announcement by Mr. Colton of a plan to provide additional books was made in faculty meeting this week. Each teacher will submit a list of ten books appropriate to his special field. These books, when purchased, will help build up the school's reference library.

The high school musical organizations are beginning the year's work. A girls' glee club is now functioning, orchestra practices are being held daily, and chorus work with mixed groups is being conducted by Mr. Martin. Bessemer will again be represented in the county and district contests.

On Saturday, October 18, Bessemer's football team will journey to Scienceville, Ohio, to tackle the strong Scienceville gridirers. This game will prove a hard contest inasmuch as Union High school, also one of Bessemer's opponents, was defeated by Scienceville earlier in the season. Scienceville also defeated Lowellville, another of Bessemer's opponents. Stanley, fullback for the locals, has been absent from practice on account of a sprained wrist. It is hoped by the team and coach Frederick that he may see action again on Saturday.

Erie Has Meanest Of Mean Thieves

(International News Service) ERIE, Pa., Oct. 17.—The "meanest thief" has bobbed up again—and police here believe they have a candidate who outshines amateurs who confine their activities to poor boxes in churches.

Erie's "meanest thief" came upon an automobile, wrecked, its owner seeking a towing car to remove its battered hulk from a busy corner. While the owner hunted a wrecking car the "meanest thief" calmly prowled the wreck, making off with an overcoat and a pair of field glasses, valued at $90.

Because the modern girl likes greater freedom than those of the past, a large dressmaking concern at Manchester, England, has just closed the last of its hotels for employees.

From the first of the year until the end of August, farmers in Lancaster county bought only 11,478 head of stocker and feeder cattle for next winter's feeding. This compares with a total of 24,840 steers in the same period last year, a decline of 13,362 animals or almost 54 per cent, according to the bureau of markets, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

In August of 1929, steers bought for fattening purposes there numbered 11,346, while only 3,435 head went out to Lancaster farms during August this year.

While sharp reductions of feeder cattle coming from Canada and western points are reported, marked increases in receipts from Virginia and West Virginia are shown.

Both the decline in cattle feeding in Lancaster county and heavy selling in Virginia and West Virginia are due to the drought market officials say. Dry weather caused poor pasturage as well as a shortage of feed and forage crops and as a result, local beef cattle feeders did not buy the usual number of steers. In the Virginias, the drought more serious than here, forced cattle men to market their stock because of lack of sustenance.

"If the present trend continues, there will be around 60 per cent fewer cattle fed and available for marketing here next year," E. A. Seaman of the Bureau's Lancaster office, reported.

Boys Confess To Burglarizing Stores

(International News Service) DENVER, Oct. 17.—When Thomas and John Paulkner, 18-year-old cousins, returned from California a few weeks ago they decided to set up housekeeping at a Denver tourist camp. Having no funds they proceeded to burglarize one store after another, until they had a tent, clothing, food and other necessities.

Police got on their trail and the boys were arrested. They confessed to burglarizing at least ten Denver stores. One night they broke into a restaurant and obtained a supply of food. The next night they broke into a stable and got canvas from which to make a tent.

The third night they entered a clothing store and dressed themselves completely in new clothing, leaving their old clothes in the store. They confessed to staging as many as four burglaries a night, taking money as well as goods.

Oslo, Norway, has a building boom.

Suppose the founder of Christianity returned and were asked "Would you free from taxation the humble dwelling of a poor man and woman with five or six children or would free a fine building costing millions erected in your honor?"

What do you think he would answer?

The chief officials of the New York Stock Exchange, it appears, dined with President Hoover at the White House on Sunday, and answered some questions.

The President is supposed to have told the stock exchange officials what he thinks about conspiracies to lower values and increase apprehension by short selling. If he told them all he thinks, they heard a great deal.

You are "almost persuaded now to believe" that the old law of supply and demand is not so powerful when you are not afraid of it.

Ordinary talk about interfering with short sales, or any form of conspiracy to diminish or injure prices in Wall street, would be silenced with "Supply and demand regulates that."

But after President Hoover had a talk with stock exchange leaders, supply and demand suddenly ceased to take the form of poisonous attacks on stock values, at least for one day.

If wise, the exchange will modify the activities of racketeers on the short side and avoid unpleasant federal regulations.

In the old days in China, superfluous girl babies thrown into the water were not interesting. There were so many of them.

In our days racketeers, and others "put on the spot" have become part of routine news.

But there is some interest in the improved methods of killing. According to the police, men disappear, detectives know that they have been taken for a ride, but their bodies are no longer found, thrown out on the road.

The improved method kills the man, takes him to deep water and throws him in, heavily weighted down with iron wired to his body. Dead men, thus disposed of tell no tales.

The "Riots in Boston" with "red Communists" so called, insisting on sharing the deliberations of the American Federation of Labor, were not serious.

It is interesting to note that "red" ladies were more violent and active than the men.

One or two of the ladies, it is said, bit and scratched policemen, and refused to "act like a lady" when urged to do so by policemen. One even asked, "What do you know about a lady?"

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Some years ago, when a man let his socks wrinkle and ruffle down around his ankles it was a sure indication that life had licked him.

BABY RACKETEERS

Side streets, fringing the theatrical district, where parking is permitted nights, are infested by a board of young racketeers between the ages of eight and sixteen who hop to the curb as you drive up, volunteering to "watch your car, mister" while you are attending the play.

THAT MORROW SCHOOL

Elizabeth Morrow, one of Dwight's daughters, after years of preparation, has embarked upon the career of director of a Fairy Tale School.

It's one of those dream barns with old fashioned surroundings and modern interiors—a place for toddlers, with a tree shaded yard, sun porches, picket fence, wide lawns and marigolds and things stuck around.

One room is an ice cream-soda-pink; another, canary yellow; a third, soft-green, with brightly upholstered arm chairs, scaled down to baby size.

Kids need plenty of color of the right kind. As a matter of fact, we all need color. This machine age is too gray and cold—too steely—too many drab angles.

Doctors have found that color, discriminatingly splashed on the walls of hospitals where the mentally ill are cared for has a beneficial effect on the patients.

Too bad they don't get more color before the brain storm sets in.

PROGRESS

The new Waldorf-Astoria is coming along nicely, thank you. The plasterers just moved in the other day and it'll be eight months, at least, before they're finished.

They're going to lay half a million square yards of plaster, 60 miles of corner beads and 50 miles of cornices—altogether, eleven hundred tons of plastering materials.

The Pastor, as a rule, is not impressed by figures. He kids himself into the belief that he's intellectually superior to such folderol. But the Arabian-Nights prodigality with which Old Man Boomer tosses zeroes around in his construction memoranda of the world's greatest caravanserie, sure does make a dent in the imagination.

LUCKY FISH

Speaking of colorful interiors: Among the triplex and twenty-four master bedroom co-operators of Park Avenue, no tenant's dream picture is too fantastic for realization—no nut idea impossible, so long as Million Dollar Mike is willing to sign on the dotted line.

One twelve-room pent house in "Shanty-Town" boasts a room the floor of which is constructed entirely of glass. A swimming pool mechanism guarantees constant fresh-water circulation.

In this 15x20 foot chamber Milady's gold fish disport, uncramped by the artificial barriers most city-bred fish are forced to put up with.

From the spacious living room on the floor below their loving mistress is enabled to survey the gyrations of her finny pets. And should the caprice seize her, a staircase permits a perfect close-up.

So live that some day you may turn into a Park Avenue gold fish.

WISE GUY

My taxi driver was loquacious: "De guy I jes has before I picks you up, sez 'Dri' me t' de Harvard Club."

"You mean de Yale Club, I sez."

"He gets madassell. 'You hold wot I sez,' he sez."

"Well, as it turns out, I'm de sucker instead o' him. He tells me where t' drive an' fin'ly I sez, 'You gotta excuse me, Mister. I ain't never hoid o' de joint before.'"

"Dat's all right," he sez, "live an' loim."

"A sort of a fresh guy."

Peter's Adventures

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

OUT AND UP FOR A SUN BATH

"Out For an airing!"

What did Busy mean? Peter lost no time in demanding explanations.

"Dear me, Boy, how little of life in Ant-Hill Town you know!" declared Busy, good naturedly. "However, the best way to find out is to do just as you are doing—ask questions. I meant just what I said when I declared Nurse would take Princess for an airing. On every sunny day every young ant, prince, princess or peasant must have a sun bath. The young worker ants cannot wander far away, nor would if they could but there is a bit of gypsy in every child of the royal family and we have to keep close watch on them or they would leave us. So we play with them and we pet them and we stay close by their sides, and long before it grows dark we coax them within the safe shelter of the hill and bar the gates leading out."

"How far is it to the dairy?" demanded Peter, who wanted to see the ant cows more than anything else he could think of. Truth to tell, he was growing slightly weary of hearing what the princess was allowed to do, or wasn't. As it happened, Busy also was ready for something different.

"How would you like to see me milk a cow?" asked she. Peter chuckled. Somehow the idea seemed very funny.

"I imagine it would be a sight for sore eyes," said he, and Busy puffed out her chest with pride. She didn't have an idea the boy was fooling.

Human Phonograph Confuses Court

(International News Service) LIVERPOOL, Eng., Oct. 17.—Described as the human phonograph because of his extraordinary habit of speaking in triplicate, James Watson, a 66-year-old Liverpool laborer, gave the following reply when accused of being drunk:

"Very sorry, sir, very sorry, very sorry. He explained he went to Birkenhead 'to get a job, get a job, get a job, sir.'"

The magistrate's clerk, pointing out it was Watson's second visit to the court in one week, asked: "Do you intend to triplicate your visits as well as your remarks?"

"I don't know what you mean, sir, what you mean, sir, what you mean," was Watson's reply.

"What did you do when you left Liverpool?" the magistrate asked.

"I did a bit of naving, bit of naving, a bit of naving, sir," said Watson.

"Pay two dollars or go to jail for ten days," said the magistrate.

"I can't pay, sir, I can't pay, I can't pay," wailed Watson.

The magistrate: "Then you must go down, must go down, must go down."

He pulled himself up in time to send Watson to the local pen for ten days.

Rescue Mission Needs Presented

Women Of City Have Given Much Help In Canning
Fruit And Vegetables

Coal Stoves Are Urgently Needed For Poor Residents Of City Poor

(By LILLIE B. JONES)

At this particular season of the year, when God has touched the leaves, plants and grasses, painting a picture of nature in all its beauty, can we realize that while our fair city is enjoying these delightful fall days, King Winter is slowly but surely on the way, when many of us will be enjoying the comforts of life.

A plea from the Rescue Mission again comes to us in behalf of the many families, whose homes are cheerless and with sickness. The Rescue Mission's greatest aim is to meet such problems and relieve suffering and distress.

This is a busy time in our homes but the devoted women interested in the work of the mission somehow find time to do much along culinary lines for the Mission's winter work. These splendid women who have given of their time to canning fruit and vegetables for the Mission closet are: Mrs. F. Steindorf, Mrs. H. L. Thompson, Mrs. S. Black, Mrs. M. Palmer, Mrs. E. Gashorn, Mrs. Marcell, Mrs. E. Leasure, Mrs. Sarah McClimonds, Mrs. B. J. Watkins, Mrs. M. Balla.

It was the writer's privilege to look into that closet with its jars filled with fruit and vegetables and besides this I saw three great barrels of Saur Kraut (and what good German don't love Kraut).

The gardeners of New Castle have been generous indeed to the Mission which appreciates the recent donation of 7 bushels of tomatoes from the Welkers farm; a bushel basket of vegetables from Mr. Shaw of Frew Mill road and 2 bushels from Rev. Bloomquist; clothing and shoes for both adult and children are much needed now in the work. Surely in our homes we can find something that will make comfortable our unfortunate neighbors—an urgent request comes for coal stoves. Reader can you imagine yourself sitting in a cold room with perhaps a sick child and no fire? Who will contribute a stove right now?

A pathetic case Rev. Watkins told about was that of two men driving in a car from a distance to New Castle. The one, recovering from a stroke, was left by the other when the car got into trouble. The man who was left had no money but when A. M. Gray manager of a garage was notified of the situation he immediately sent for the man and car brought them to the city and made arrangements for the man's comfort at the mission until his people could be informed.

As I come into the Mission office I met Rev. Clifford Joshua of the Croton M. E. church and W. H. Butler who were in consultations over the financial situation of this rest for the weary and they were earnestly trying to plan ways and means to meet the obligations which must be met to keep the Rescue Mission open, and surely with the increasing calls for help New Castle will not see the Mission closed.

A report of the Mission's work from September 1, 1930 to October 1, 1930, follows:

Mission services held	12
Sunday school services held	4
Church services in city	2
Bible classes taught in city	2
Funeral services	1

Number of garments given out, 104.
Number of stoves given out, 2.

These are busy days at the Mission many calls for help, men seeking employment, we were able to get several jobs for the unemployed. The ladies have been busy canning and making kraut they have canned over 100 cans of tomatoes, and 3 barrels of kraut.

Muny Golf Course Success Enthuses Original Sponsors

Commenting on the success of the city's Municipal Golf Course members of the original construction committee who could be reached today said the response has been double than had been anticipated; that it was a civic asset, that to make it serve the interested public it would have to be enlarged.

Despite difficult opposition to the project of a community course, interested citizens contributed their time to its building. The city councilmen who co-operated with the construction of the course in the fall of 1928 were praised for the forwardness.

The report on the Municipal Golf

"The municipal course is a great asset to the city. It is a benefit to the employees of the city, who are getting recreation and other benefits not available in many other centers. For industries who wish to locate here, the course will help us show that we have something to offer them. I have been to some dozens of golf courses this summer, but none can compare to our municipal course, for the small amount of money invested."

"When we started out on the project there was nothing but opposition. It was hard work to get others to see our side. Many citizens worked whole heartedly."

In a recent month the average price of stocks listed in Austria dropped 39 points.

Timely Reminders Are Given Farmers

Many Useful Suggestions Given Agriculturists By State College

Useful information to agriculturists is contained in the weekly bulletin from the School of Agriculture of Penn State College.

Leaves are useful—Fallen leaves should be raked and piled for use as a mulch, protection for perennial beds, or for manure for next year's garden.

"Ce-ops" Will Confer—Members of Pennsylvania cooperatives will meet at State College, November 20, 21 and 22, for their fifth annual conference.

Plant Spring Flowers—Spring flowering bulbs may be planted now. Bulbs planted in clumps of five are far more attractive than those planted in single rows.

Farmers Grow More—It is estimated that the American farmer is at least four times as efficient as any other farmer in the world. Increased efficiency brings greater volume and, unfortunately, sometimes unwelcome surpluses of some commodities result.

Feed Syrup to Bees—Bees which do not have sufficient stores of good quality for the winter should be fed sugar syrup before cold weather comes.

Keeping Foal Growing—A foal makes more than half of its entire growth during the first year. It stunted during this time the colt will never fully recover. Proper feed and care are important.

Put Grease on Plows—Grease is better than oil for protecting plowshares from rust when they are stored for the winter, as the grease stays where it is put.

BLIND MAN IS EXPERT CARPENTER

(International News Service)
MINERSVILLE, Ohio, Oct. 17.—Albert Carman, 40, who lives here with his aged mother, has been blind since his early youth, yet he is an expert carpenter, housebuilder, cabinet-maker and gardener.

It is his boast that he can do anything with a plane, hammer or saw that any other man can do.

Carmen may be a little slow but few can beat him at his work.

Carmen does all his own work of planning, ordering material, laying out plans and assembling material. And he never mislays his tools or pounds his fingers with a hammer.

The blind carpenter is an expert in all phases of the work. A remarkable feature of the man's success is that he never took a lesson in carpentry or cabinet-making. He is "self-made."

Rev. W. L. Shirer Returns To Africa

Will Go Into Interior To Lay Out New Missionary
Territory In Sudar
District

Farewell Services Will Be Conducted Sunday Morning And Evening In The Y. W. C. A.

After serving as pastor of the Pentecostal Assembly in this city for about a year, Rev. W. L. Shirer will sail October 31 from New York on the steamer "West Lashaway" which will land him direct on the African coast at Freetown.

The territory Rev. Shirer will lay out as new missionary territory is located in the Niger River basin in French West Africa in the Sudan district.

Rev. Shirer is not new in the African territory having served four and a half years here. The government of the Sudan is French and thousands of miles of roads and telegraph have been built in the past few years. On his first trip to Africa in 1924 Mr. Shirer traveled a month on bicycle from the Niger River to the interior, where his station was located. With him were twenty five native men, each carrying a 45 pound load on his head for the entire distance. When he returns this time he will find things greatly changed as far as transportation is concerned for the roads have been improved and there are many automobiles in use.

The natives in this territory are negroes, semi-civilized, who practice polygamy and live in thatched, round houses; each tribe having a language of their own.

Mr. Shirer's family will not accompany him on this trip as it is a deputational one for pioneering and will last for a three month period.

Mrs. Shirer, who was Margaret Peoples, has a longer record of service than her husband as her first trip to the Sudan as a missionary was in 1920 when she remained for a period of three years and at the time she went into the interior the party rode horseback and some were carried in hammocks by the natives.

In 1923 she returned to the United States for a furlough returning to Africa in 1925.

The marriage of Rev. and Mrs. Shirer was an event in Africa, having been performed in four different languages, French, English, Bambara and Mossi in the field where they were stationed. Both their children were born in Africa and when they returned to the United States last year the oldest of these could speak nothing but the African language, which she had learned from the natives.

Rev. Shirer will conduct his farewell services Sunday in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium and at the morning service will display a great many curios he brought back with him. At the evening service he will give an illustrated lecture on Africa, using photos he and Mrs. Shirer took.

It is with regret the Pentecostal Assembly congregation sees their pastor leave.

Penn State Serves Keystone Farmers Well In 75 Years

Research Projects Now Carried On Are Most Extensive
In Scope

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 17.—From the meager beginnings of experimental agriculture in the original plan of the Farmers' high school, chartered by the commonwealth in 1855, agricultural experiments at the Pennsylvania State college have grown until 204 research projects are now being conducted by 75 staff members. Dr. S. W. Fletcher, director of research for the agricultural experiment station, stated today.

Since the institution was founded 75 years ago, the anniversary of which will be celebrated October 23, 24 and 25, hundreds of important discoveries have been made by the tireless scientists of the school of agriculture. Many have revolutionized the agriculture of the state.

Development and introduction of Pennsylvania 44 wheat has changed the map of cereal production. Over a third of the wheat grown in Pennsylvania now is of this variety. Yields have been increased and quality improved.

Complete confinement methods of growing chickens and turkeys have been carried from the college to the industry. Penstate Jessie's revelation of the secret of vitamin B or Earlamia, Matchum and Nittany tomatoes and Penn State Baldhead cabbage are grown extensively in Pennsylvania, in other states and foreign countries.

Now in their 50th year, the old fertility plots have shown that the soil must be fed systematically if it is to produce profitable crops year after year. More recently agricultural engineering and agricultural economics have launched studies which will be productive of information needed in this new day of machine farming and cooperative marketing.

Control of insect and disease pests, the kind of forest trees to plant and where, and many other important recommendations have come from the laboratories and experimental plots of Penn State in its 75 years of service in the state.

"Then"—strolling away—"for what wad ye be wantin' a porter?"—R. R. Magazine.

MYERS Y. COOPER

Prohibition is the paramount issue in the Ohio political campaign despite efforts of leaders of both parties to ignore it because the Democratic senatorial nominee, Robert J. Bulkley of Cleveland, an out and out wet, has persisted in making it a direct issue. Senator Roscoe C. McCulloch of Canton, his Republican opponent, and the two gubernatorial candidates, George A. White of Marietta, Democrat, and Governor Myers Y. Cooper of Cincinnati, who is seeking re-election, are dry.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

RECORDS TELL WHAT POU- TRY FLOCK DOES

Lawrence county poultrymen who keep records on their flocks know what their birds are doing and whether the business is profitable.

The poultryman who has records knows at the end of the year the average egg production per bird, net profit per hen, cost of producing a dozen eggs, feed costs, and all other factors which one should know in order to improve his business.

Carefully kept and properly analyzed records will greatly aid the poultryman this year in his attempt to make his business profitable.

FARMERS PROVIDE HOME COM- FORTS DURING FALL

Reports of extension workers in counties all over the state indicate that in this season after harvest many farmers are installing water system and septic tanks.

Lawrence county has a community form for making septic tanks. This can be obtained by those who wish to build their own tanks.

The method followed in constructing them is covered in agricultural extension circular 89, "Septic Tanks for the Farm," which may be obtained from the office of Agricultural Extension Association.

Home comforts provided by water and sanitation systems are valuable throughout the year but they are especially convenient during the winter.

FIND WHEAT VALUABLE FOR FATTING SWINE

Experiments conducted at the Pennsylvania State College show that wheat is a valuable feed for swine.

Thirty pigs fed ground wheat, fishmeal, and minerals in a self-feeder made an average daily gain of 1.78 pounds per pig over the 50-day test last fall. It was concluded that for pigs weighing from 100 to 200 pounds, seven bushels of wheat, plus 25 pounds of tankage (60 per cent protein) or high-grade fishmeal, will produce 100 pounds of pork.

Furthermore, the livestock specialists decided that when hogs sell at $12 per hundred weight wheat is worth $1.60 a bushel as feed. At $11 a hundred pounds wheat is worth $1.45, and at $10 for pork wheat is valued at $1.30.

CLEANLINESS IS AD TO HIGH EGG QUALITY

Production of quality eggs is an important factor in increased profits to the poultryman. Labor can be saved and the quality of the eggs preserved by having the egg clean when taken from the nest.

Two or three inches of clean shavings proved satisfactory nesting material. Aside from prevention of breakage in the nest this material absorbs droppings and prevents filth from coming in contact with the egg.

Wiring the dropping boards prevents the hens from soiling the eggs from droppings which have collected on the feet of the birds. Frequent gathering is another factor in helping to keep the eggs clean.

ASPARAGUS RESPONDS TO GOOD TREATMENT

Choice of cultural methods which will produce a maximum growth of tops during the summer and fall is of great importance in the growing of asparagus.

fall and turned down early in the spring offers practically no competition to the asparagus.

Some organic matter is supplied to the soil by the asparagus plant itself. The fibrous roots decay after functioning for only one year, and the fleshy roots decompose at the end of a somewhat longer period. The tops of the growing plants may be allowed to stand over winter and be turned under the following spring. Approximately 1500 pounds of organic matter, according to experiment in Massachusetts, are added to one acre each year by turning under the asparagus tops.

When these facts are considered, it is not surprising to find a lack of favorable response, in a number of experiments, to applications of manure. Some growers object to leaving the tops until spring because they are somewhat difficult to plow under. Even when burned on the soil, their large phosphorus and potash content is returned for future use of the crop.

Closer Harmony Of Secondary Schools And Colleges On Penn State Program

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 17.—How to bring the secondary schools of the state and the colleges into closer harmony without losing the distinctive advantages of each as separate units in the educational system will be considered by leaders of both divisions at the education day program of the 75th anniversary of the Pennsylvania State college.

The celebration will open October 23 and continue three days. On the second day of the celebration, "Pennsylvania Day," the program has been arranged to display the work of the college generally to the people of the state, the public having been invited to participate by Dr. Ralph D. Hetzel, president of the institution, and the board of college trustees.

On the last day, alumni homecoming, the former students will celebrate the rebirth given the college in the completion of the building replacement program during which 12 worn-out structures were replaced by modern edifices. A feature of the day will be the dedication of rebuilt Old Main.

WHAT MAKES LIFE—

Brutal is to be always looking for hard knocks. Drury is to have no real reason for living.

Wretched is to be at war with one's self. Treasonable tomorrow is to play fast and loose with today.

Uninspiring is to live in the gutters of the soul. Monotonous is to stifle our highest and noblest impulses.

Hopeless is to close the door of one's life on God.

Local Red Cross To Have Exhibit At Conference

Outstanding Work Of Lawrence County Chapter
Will Be Depicted

Outstanding accomplishments of the Lawrence County Chapter, American Red Cross, will be depicted by exhibits at the Southwestern Pennsylvania Regional conference to be held in the William Penn Hotel in Pittsburgh on Monday.

The Lawrence County Chapter has done exceptionally fine work in Life Saving, Disaster Relief, preparedness, and in the publicity accorded Veterans claims.

There are several hundred swimmers in the county enrolled in the various Life Saving classes, from the beginners to the Senior Life Saving examiners. This work has been stressed here for several years, and definite results are now being obtained.

A complete Disaster Relief organization has been established here, which is equipped to take care of any emergency at a moment's notice.

Amazing results have been achieved by the Chapter in its publicity in behalf of various claims for World War veterans. In several cases, responses have been received from remote points, and claims have been handled through the local chapter for veterans or their families from many miles distant.

AKRON, O., Oct. 17.—A good feed and kind treatment is a great preventive of suicide.

Take it from L. W. Rickard of the Salvation Army, who has organized an anti-suicide club here.

Candidates for the club must sign a pledge never to take their own lives. The idea for the club came to Rickard after he was successful in persuading several persons from committing suicide, he said.

"We find the victims of despondency, when given a good feed and kind treatment, take an entirely different view of life," Rickard said.

About ten years ago, during a widespread industrial depression, an anti-suicide club did a flourishing business here but need for it disappeared.

Harrison Street Schoolgirl, Bedfast Eight Months Today, Finds Plenty To Amuse Her

Ordered to bed by her family physician because of a heart ailment exactly eight months ago today, little Thelma Rose Clark, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Clark of 904 Harrison street, though still bedfast, looks eagerly ahead to the day when she may answer the Thaddeus Stevens school bell again with the school-mates she formerly chummed with.

It's been a long time since she had to leave school, even a whole summer's vacation has passed. But for Thelma Rose it hasn't seemed long—or as long as it would for most people. She manages to keep busy all the time, and during the summer months besides doing ordinary things she ran a library besides.

Library Of Her Own
And it's important to explain how she did it, for not every grade school girl would find themselves capable managers as the Harrison street library patrons found her. She got help from her cousin, Catherine Genkinger, a life-long playmate. Catherine would do the necessary running around while Thelma Rose kept tab on the circulation.

"Early in July the girls talked about starting some kind of a library," Thelma Rose's parents said, "and of course we made up our minds to encourage them. They had everything planned and the books in the shelves and ready to open in the middle of July."

"The books were gathered together from our book supply and others were obtained outside. Upstairs Thelma supervised the stamping of the cards just as librarians do at the local library. They arranged special card holders in the back of every book, and borrowers knew by their card when the volume was due."

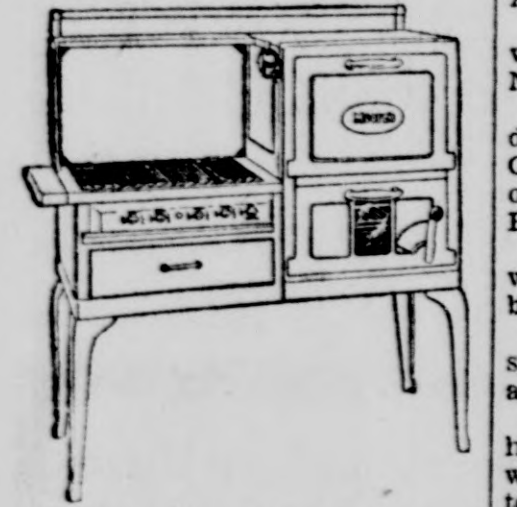

Thirty-Five Readers
"It was mostly a children's library with the majority of the books for girls. Probably 35 or more youngsters called at the home during the summer for books, and according to the girls' records anywhere from 75 to 100 books were circulated. If borrowers failed to get the books back on time they had to pay a certain penalty."

All the help the girls needed was given by Mr. and Mrs. Clark in order that Thelma Rose might have something to do—and something she certainly likes. Cousin Catherine did her share of the work, and with other Harrison street girls still pays the Clark home almost daily visits.

The library closed the first of the month due to the fact that school was on, and school, with its important studies, comes first. So all books were turned in October 1 and since then she's been giving attention to other things.

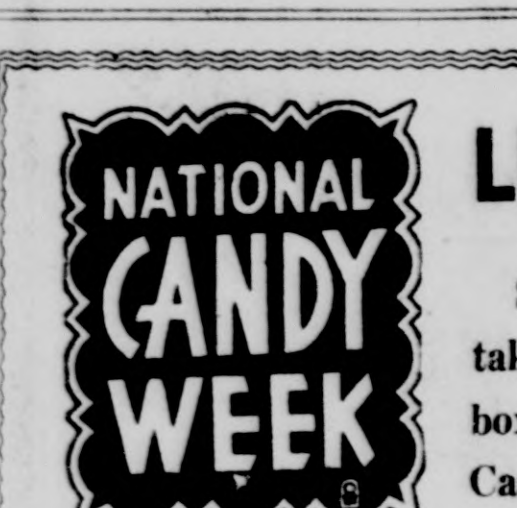

Boys Patronize
One of the amusing things about the library, her parents recalled was the fact that boys were just as anxious to read the books as were the girls.

Thelma Rose cannot sit up and

Discover Mummies Of Ancient Race

(International News Service)
CARLSBAD, N. H. Oct. 17.—Mummies of an ancient race, believed to have antedated the basketmakers of the southwest, were discovered here recently by James White, veteran explorer of the southwest. White, who is also credited with having discovered the famous Carlsbad caverns, found the mummies in another cave near here.

White refused to reveal the exact location of the new cavern in which the mummies were found, pending arrangements for the protection of the discoverer.

The mummies were in a perfect state of preservation, similar to those of the ancient Egyptians. Explorers and archaeologists familiar with cavern exploration say White's most recent discoveries undoubtedly are the most important ever made in the southwest.

Carl Livingston, scientist and explorer, discovered evidences of the existence of the basketmakers several years ago. White's discoveries tend to prove that another race inhabited the same section thousands of years before the basketmakers.

Ordinances Show Yesteryear Thoughts

Sentiment of yesteryear, like machinery, has changed but type once printed lives eternally, it would appear from old ordinances contained in records at city hall.

Going back to 1900, one finds that a person wasn't allowed to sell candy or fruits on Sunday. If caught he could be fined $10 or jailed.

Another ordinance, in 1904, to exhibit pictures that would incite to crime or debauch would cause an arrest.

The ordinance prohibited the display of anything that would corrupt the morals. The exhibitionist could be fined; likewise the building owner.

Says Parisians Are Best Dancers

(International News Service)
PARIS, Oct. 17.—Parisians dance better than the people of any other city in the world, recently declared Mr. Santos Casani, Director of the most celebrated dancing academy in London. But this he also adds, does not necessarily mean French dancers, or particularly Parisians. This includes the large number of dancers to be found at any of the smart cabarets and dance-halls of the capital.

"In Paris," says M. Casani, "people dance, for the love of it, they feel good and they are happy dancing. In many other cities I find couples only doing it for relaxation and they look bored and do not dance well.

The pleasure one finds in dancing is one of the essential qualities which makes it elegant. Nowhere in London, Berlin or New York have

I seen as chic couples as in the Bois de Boulogne, or at one of the smart establishments of the Champs Elysees.

"They say that in France everything finishes by a song. In Paris at least, I find that the dance holds the place of honor."

South Siders Well Pleased

Bargain Day Event Is Greater Success Even Than Anticipated

The South Side Board of Trade members were wearing broad smiles today. They were completely happy—they had just put something over with a bang, and when you do this you always feel a secret pride and joy.

It was bargain day down on the south side yesterday and the public took advantage of the many sales and bargains to get necessary equipment. All day long the stores were crowded with people, and business was very good. There were innumerable sales.

Mr. and Mrs. John Public, always alert for bargains, had their innings. Merchants couldn't get through talking about the wonderful turnout for the special event.

Another bargain day is planned for the very near future, and as one member put it "It will be bigger and better than the first one." Bargain day sure does stimulate trade, was the remark of another of the merchants. The South Side Board of Trade is composed of men who own and operate their own stores.

And just as a reminder, the south side is planning a great celebration for Halloween, and if it comes up to the one held last year it will be a fine success.

France May Give War Widows The Right To Vote

By RUTH JANE WILLIAMS
International News Service Staff Correspondent
PARIS, Oct. 17.—To vote or to remarry?

That is the question.

French war widows will be faced with this choice this winter. Unless the Chamber of Deputies declines to pass the Vote-for-War-Widows Bill which is on the schedule for consideration next month.

The bill is all in favor of the in-consolable brides of the late war. The ladies who consoled themselves with new mates are to be left out in the cold as far as the severe French legislation is concerned.

If the bill is passed, however, the wives of World War heroes who gave their lives for their country will be the first women in this country to receive any voice in the government.

The staunchly masculine rulers of the French Republic have thus far refused to permit frivolous femininity to raise its smallest finger in matters of state. Woman's place is in the home, according to the Gallic mind, and that's where she must stay. No woman in France has ever been allowed to vote.

Something is considered due, however, to the women who lost their husbands fighting for France. And the most extravagant gift the author of the bill can think of, for these heroines, is the accordance of the vote. It is considered very unlikely, by all Parisian papers, that the country's statesman will be guilty of such extravagance.

Rain Is Welcome To State Hunters

Will Prevent Possible Forest Fires When Real Hunting Season Starts

Rain, which is expected to cover most of Pennsylvania during the next few days, will bring a sigh of relief from the State Game Commission and the hunters of the state who are looking forward to the opening of the greater part of the hunting season in a short time now.

The long dry spell has made the woods and grasslands of the state dry as tinder. With thousands of hunters going into the woods in search of game, forest fires were feared.

A good soaking rain will remedy the condition however, and will also benefit the hunters as it will make better tracking for their dogs if the ground is damp.

Had the dry spell continued, there was some talk by members of the game commission of postponing the season to prevent possible forest fires. This will not be necessary, however if the present rainy weather lasts for a few days.

Cupid Fails Somewhat In Aldermen's Offices This Year; Marriages Decline But Marital Squabbles On Increase

Dan Cupid's happy hunting grounds are no longer the staid offices of New Castle's aldermen.

As a matter of fact, if the accounts of aldermen here are to be regarded as authentic barometers of the marriage situation, the bottom of the scale is not far off. In brief, aldermanic marriages in the city are on a decline. The aldermen themselves say so.

Why? No one seems to know. In the good old days marriages claimed considerable time from the fee-paid aldermen. "Now," as one squire riages performed by both ministers and aldermen. Whenever marriages decline, however, it appears that the aldermen are the initial officiators to feel the slump.

On Thursday Alderman O. H. P. Green, called by other city aldermen the "champion" in all marriage matters, hung up a total of 100 weddings for the year. Yet he says:

"That number is 10 per cent to 15 per cent shorter than last year."

Green believes the shortage of marriages in his office is due to the fact that he has been away from the city numerous times.

For the month, other aldermen have been fortunate in having less than half a dozen couples.

Despite the lack of weddings, aldermen here say, the rate of marital troubles is on the increase. Young couples, recently married, flock to aldermen to "patch" up differences.

Financial difficulties are the cause of most of them, the aldermen say.

35th annual convention of the Federation of Pennsylvania Women's clubs ended here today when the board of directors named York as the site of next year's convention and, after appointing a committee to take charge of the new state headquarters at Harrisburg, adjourned.

The directors named Mrs. Isaac
Heister of Reading, Mrs. S. Blair
Luckie of Chester and Mrs. Walter Miller of Lancaster to the committee which will be in charge of new headquarters and Mrs. Margaret Becker of Harrisburg, was chosen secretary of the headquarters group.

Most of the convention delegates left for home today, though many remained to inspect coal mines and other points of interest in the vicinity of Scranton.

At the late session yesterday, delegates heard Amelia Earhart, famous aviatrix, discuss improvements in aviation and Margaret Sanger, famous leader in the birth control movement, plead that birth control be taken "out of the gutter and placed on a scientific, decent and hostesses then enjoyed an informal

Cemetery Pranks Ticket To Jail

Police Chief Warns All Youths To Stay Out Of Cemeteries Here

"All those persons who are caught in any of the cemeteries perpetrating Halloween pranks, whether actually caught in the commission of an act of vandalism or not, will be arrested" said Chief of Police C. C. Horner this morning.

"There is no need or excuse for boys and young men congregating in the cemeteries and doing damage as has been done at Greenwood Cemetery for the past few weeks, and this is a final warning to those who have been making a practice of doing damage in the cemeteries here."

In addition to knocking over tombstones at Greenwood cemetery this week, the boys have been busy themselves changing the iron markers placed on soldiers graves and placing them at random here and there and on many graves where they do not belong. It means considerable trouble to the management of the cemetery to relocate them in the proper places.

shortly before noon today from the 14th floor of the Bellevue-Stratford, one of the city's best known hotels.

A note containing a scribbled notation of the woman's room num-

MANY ARTICLES LEFT IN BERLIN TROLLEYS

(International News Service)
BERLIN, Oct. 17.—The otherwise orderly Berliners become forgetful street car, underground and autobus

103,281 objects, which were turned

The record for this year will probably be much higher, for it is already some 7,000 articles ahead of the same date in 1929.

First Reports Issued At High

All kinds of comment could be heard this morning in the halls of the senior high school. "What did you get?" "Did she think you?"
"Did he give you an 'E'?" etc., were some of the expressions used by the students this morning. The reason was that the first reports of the school year were issued this morning at the high school.

The students were given their reports to carry around to their dear ferent teachers to receive their grades. Some students were happy about the grades, while others were downhearted. Two more reports will be issued before the semester ends. Six reports a year are issued at the high school.

State Editors Are Quizzed On Dry Question

Can Reveal Stand On Matter
To Prohibition Bureau
With Secrecy

WILL NOT REVEAL
NAMES OF PAPERS

Even Number Of Papers In State Which Were Circularized Keep Secret

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent of
The New Castle News
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—
Several Pennsylvania newspapers will now have the chance to express their views on prohibition to the federal prohibition bureau itself, and yet remain incognito, for just how many or what papers in the State are thus honored will remain a mystery since the bureau steadfastly refuses to tell the public.

Approximately 3,000 copies of a prohibition questionnaire have been sent to editors throughout the State and country with a view to gathering data that will be compiled and published by the bureau as a monograph. However, the bureau's silence as to whom the queries were sent means that whereas the public will gladly be told many newspapers declared in favor of prohibition, how many against it, and how many were neutral, it will never know precisely who contributed the bureau's conclusions.

"What newspapers in Pennsylvania were sent this questionnaire?"
the prohibition bureau was asked.
"We are not making their names public," came the evasive reply.

"Well, can you at least tell how many papers in Pennsylvania were included in the 3,000?"

"The bureau does not care to tell that either. We are giving no information whatever regarding this questionnaire."

And so certain unnamed Pennsylvania editors are asked to contribute to this survey, which is being carried on with all the mystery of the secret ballot and will probably give even less indication of how the wind really blows, since in this referendum the bureau itself has picked the voters.

P. H. C. Members Plan Masquerade

Interesting Meeting Of Local Circle Is Held On Wednesday Night

The busy session held by New Castle circle No. 5 Protected Home Circle on Wednesday evening brought together an excellent representation of the membership. Following the ceremonies of initiation of a fine class of young people with the degree staff in charge many items of importance were disposed of and social events for the winter season partially arranged.

Most important will be the annual masquerade party held on October 29 with the following committee in charge, with Harry Melhman as chairman, assisted by Mabel Tucker, Allie Vogan, Hazel Hicks
Belle Kennedy and A. L. Conn. The 1930 party promises to be one of the finest ever held by the circle. Splendid music will feature the dance with prizes given for the best costumes on the floor and of course Hallowe'en refreshments will be served.

The program of the evening was unique and interesting. Jean Del-lilo was entitled to the applause given for her fairy footsteps and later another solo dance, while the McConahy family, Alex. Oliver, Eugene and Isabel, won new laurels for the numbers they presented. Eu-ery Back rendered a fine violin number. The co-sponsor act of little Maxine DeLillo was no less than the work of a professional, really a child wonder. Jean Dellilo's humorous reading was another feature of the program and Isabel McConahy scored a big hit with song and banjo.

A snappy little address from Past Grand Chaplain Gertrude Halborn and remarks from the members closed the session with lunch as a later feature.

The regular card party held by the social committee for members and their friends will take place on next Wednesday evening in the circle chamber.

Farm Wages In State Are Low

Remuneration For Farm Labor Is Lowest Of North Atlantic Region

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent Of The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—Although the level of farm wages in Pennsylvania this month is substantially higher than for the country as a whole, the wages of Pennsylvania farm laborers are the lowest in the North Atlantic region, according to the bureau of agricultural economics of the department of agriculture.

The farm wages in the Keystone State this month are reported as follows: by the month, with board, $36.00; by the month, without board, $44.25; per day with board, $2.25; and per day without board, $2.90.

The wages in the country as a whole average $31.31 per month with board, $44.36 per month without board; $1.61 per day with board, and $2.12 per day without board. The general trend of wages is highest on farms in the far western region, next highest in the North Atlantic group, and lowest in the South Central and South Atlantic regions.

The supply of farm labor in Pennsylvania this month is about two per cent greater than what is considered normal, but the demand is only 79 per cent normal, the report states.

Farm wages on October 1, were at the lowest 4th since January, 1923, because of poor crop prospects, farm products price declines, and the fact that the supply of farm hands in the nation is more than 40 per cent in excess of the demand, the bureau states.

Closing Sermons Attract Attention

Rev. C. H. Erickson Will Close Evangelistic Services Sunday Evening

"Is Jesus Christ coming back to earth again in person?" asked Rev. C. H. Erickson, who is conducting a campaign in the Missionary Alliance Tabernacle, 210 Pearson street last night at the service and answer his own question, the Evangelist went on to tell how the Bible was filled with the coming of Christ. "One out of every twenty-two of the scriptures pertaining to any subject in the Bible is something about the second coming of Jesus. Enoch, Job, Daniel and all the patriarchs spoke of His coming. Jesus himself said 'I am going away and if I go away, I will come again.'"

Rev. Erickson will speak on Divine Healing Friday night, using as his very unique subject, "If" Mr. and Mrs. Erickson bring solos and duets at each service in their own unusual manner.

The Pure In Heart

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.—Matthew 5:8.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

What folk see in anything that is before their eyes depends not so much upon what is before their eyes as upon what is back of their eyes. Doubtless Simon and Anna in the temple when the Christ Child was brought in that day. But to them it was just another baby to be dedicated to the Lord in a service which to them had become a commonplace.

Not so, however, with Simeon and Anna. They went to the house of God in the spirit of expectancy, and God rewarded them, as is his custom in dealing with all who approach him in this spirit. Simeon was "righteous and devout, looking for the consolation of Israel; and the Holy Spirit was upon him. And it had been revealed unto him by the Holy Spirit that he should not see death, before he had seen the Lord's Christ." Simeon's heart fed upon this promise that he should live to behold the Christ with his own eyes. He went to the temple daily, hoping to see the fulfillment of this precious promise. If we went to God's house relying upon his word with the same faith, and expecting to see the Christ, we, too, would be blessed with a vision of him, and find in that vision the completing touch to our lives. We see not because we expect not. Simeon's expectant soul enabled him to see more in the Christ Child than many who ministered in that same temple were able to see in him 30 years later, despite his marvelous life and teaching and miracles. Their eyes were blinded because their hearts were evil. Only the pure in heart see God.

The sight of the Christ was all that Simeon felt he needed to make his life complete, and at the sight he poured out his heart in praise and prayer in the song we call the "Nunc Dimittis": "Now lettest thou thy servant depart, Lord, according to thy word, in peace; for mine eyes have seen thy salvation, which thou hast prepared before the face of all peoples; a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of thy people Israel." He was now ready to dedicate this life, having seen the world's salvation prepared in Christ. It is a suggestion of the preparation we all need for that great adventure, for in him only are light and peace without seeing him. It is he who, by his death and resurrection, has robbed death of its sting and the grave of its victory. He has turned death from an enemy into the dying believer's friend and servant who opens the door and ushers him into the presence of the Lord. To "depart in peace" suggests no terrors to the believer who sees Christ as his companion who goes with him "through the valley of the shadow of death."

The Shadow of the Cross
Even here in our Saviour's infancy, at the age of 40 days, the shadow of the cross is thrown across his pathway, as Simeon sings to Mary of her Son as "a sign which is spoken against," and foretells that "a sword shall pierce through to the end, his own soul." So from beginning to end, he lived his life in the shadow of the cross. In that same shadow we find the peace and salvation of which Simeon sang.
(The International Uniform Lesson for October 19 is Luke 2:25-39, the subject being "Simeon and Anna: the Insight of the Pure Heart," and the Golden Text, Matt. 5:8: "Blessed are the pure in heart: for they shall see God.")

500,000 Flaxolyn Users Can't Be Wrong!

FOR over 12 solid months the newspapers of this vicinity have published a positive written guarantee offering to hand back the full purchase price to any Flaxolyn user not thoroughly satisfied with his or her improvement. Yet, despite this liberal and clear-cut offer, not even two people in ten thousand have asked for their money back! In all the history of the drug business, there has never been such an amazing record.

Dr. Morris Weiss of Vienna, now in New York City, says: "Flaxolyn is a splendid formula, containing ingredients of which I approve. After thorough trial I am glad to recommend Flaxolyn. In cases where I have prescribed it, keener appetite and more normal bowel action have been quick to follow."

Physicians from all parts of the world, retained to give their frank opinion of Flaxolyn, repeatedly endorsed it as a genuinely fine preparation.

European Physician Lauds Flaxolyn

Dr. Samuel Ostfeld, former Board of Health Director in Roumania, says: "I have been requested to give my personal opinion of Flaxolyn. It impresses me as being an outstanding formula because of its scientific combination of widely-renowned roots and herbs, together with vegetable extracts and other splendid ingredients. I suggest Flaxolyn as a safe, modern, scientifically sound preparation."

National Farm Outlook

By ARTHUR H. JENKINS
Editor, The Farm Journal
Written for Central Press

It has been 12 years since the World War ended, and you would think that in that time the question of the war debts would have been settled once and for all. Probably many people think the question has been so settled. Certainly, and find it hard to believe that the European countries to whom we advanced credit during the war, and in most cases these have been agreed to and payments are being made. That ought to settle it.

But the fact is that final settlement seems as far away as ever. Assistance to the debtor nations has never stopped. They are saying as firmly as ever that the generation that went through the war might agree to continue debt payments for 50 more years but that the next generation will never submit to such an endless tribute. And the time is at hand when this younger generation is coming to adult years and grasping for political power.

You are wondering what all this has to do with agriculture, perhaps. It has much more to do with you than you think. Consider this chain of reasoning: Debts between nations cannot possibly be paid in "money". The debtor nation must transfer gold bars, or merchandise of some sort, or land, or must perform some service for which a credit is given. That is all the ways there are.

Now, the debtor nations can't pay gold—they haven't got enough. They won't take land. Therefore they must pay—if they do pay—in merchandise or personal services. But this is what we do our best to prevent through high tariff duties, and building up our own merchant fleet of ships and things like that. At the same time we make it harder for foreign nations to sell to us, we make it just so much harder to buy from us. And right here we meet with the four great farm export commodities, cotton, tobacco, wheat and live stock products. It is the feeble foreign demand for these things that helps create surpluses and wrecks prices.

Understand, this is not my argument. It is the assertion of a large group of economists and financiers who survey the field carefully, and reach the conclusion that the war debts ought to be canceled. Their belief is that the whole world suffers through the existence of the debts, and that of all classes of our citizens, farmers stand to gain most by crossing them off the books.

Farmers themselves, according to an extensive survey I made several years ago, think the war debt should be paid in full. There was almost no sentiment for cancellation. But I am not at all sure that most country people have given the subject the close study of the trained economist. They may be right, or they may be just standing in their own light.

Dumping On Big Run Prohibited

Dumping of rubbish and garbage along and in Big Run Creek is prohibited by the city and persons attempting to dump stuff of any kind in that district is likely to find themselves in considerable trouble. Thursday, Sanitary Officer L. S. Hoon caught a woman dumping bottles and other rubbish along the creek and on her promise to clean up and remove all the stuff thrown there, she was allowed to go free this time.

Officer Hoon will make a return inspection today and if the stuff has not been cleaned up, the woman in this case will face the penalty of being arrested and paying a fine.

School Buses Carry 'Jumper' For Safety

Is Active Youth Who Jumps Off To See If Track Is Clear At Crossings

A rural school board in Ohio has solved the problem of safeguarding the buses which carry the school children from and to their homes from grade crossing perils. It has equipped each bus with a "jumper". The jumper is not a mechanical contrivance. It is an active youth who, when the bus approaches a railroad crossing, jumps off and runs ahead to see whether the track is clear, signaling the driver to come on or stop. A high school boy, young enough to have the sharpest faculties and old enough to be responsible, is employed as "jumper", and he is paid for it.

There are two advantages to the plan. The driver's attention is not taken from the operation of his machine at a critical moment, and there is a sort of double-check on the driver's carelessness. Many grade crossing accidents have resulted from mechanical errors of the driver whose attention was taken away from his machine by the approach of a train. There have been instances of a driver so confused that he stepped on the gas instead of the brake. The double-check on carelessness arises from the fact that a high school boy, dignified with the responsibility and paid for the duty of seeing that the way is clear at a crossing, will usually insist on the routine of the business being performed to the letter. There will be no perfunctory slowing down and half-way reconnoitering.

Ohio was the scene of one of the most terrible of recent grade crossing accidents, when a school bus was smashed by a train. The school board in the little city of Wickliffe, which has acted to safeguard its buses, leads the way in a move which all the schools with buses may well follow.

The City of Savannah, first vessel to cross the Atlantic, under steam power, was manned by New London men throughout, and it's skipper was Captain Steven Rogers, of New London. On his house, which is still standing the historical society here plans to place a tablet telling of the captain and his deeds. The house stands at Main and Shapley streets, apparently in the same condition as when Captain Rogers was living in it.

GAME OFFICER TERMS TODAY'S RAINFALL MOST WELCOME ONE

Lawrence county could stand a week or more of this rain," commented County Game Warden, Frank L. Coen this morning, referring to the welcome rain drops that started falling early today. Warden Coen explained the dryness of the woods here was reaching a serious stage.

Continuing, Mr. Coen said, we've been fortunate around here so far, and to date I haven't heard of any bad fires. The conditions in the woods were the driest in some time before this rain.

The game warden pointed out that in other countries the situation is as bad and in the mountain countries ever worse. Fires seem to get a start somehow and the dry timber furnishes fine firewood for the blaze.

The woodcock season is on right now, and while it's dry I believe hunters are finding their trips to the woods successful, said the warden. It's been a little too warm to work dogs though. The woodcock season opened October 15, and closes November 14.

The game protector asserted he doesn't believe it will be necessary for Governor Fisher to postpone the small game season schedule to open in November, if the rain continues to fall. Prospects in the other sections of the state are believed to be just as good.

Governor Fisher announced early this week that he is holding the postponement matter under advisement for a week or so to determine just what the weather will do. Should it continue dry he may act on the suggestion of forestry chiefs that he delay the opening. Meanwhile, Lawrence county's hunters were of the opinion today that something will give them a break so that hunting trips already planned will not be spoiled.

Confident that he can fly from New York to the west coast in 20 hours, Wilmer Reedholm, 18, of Boone, Ia., plans to capture the east-west, west-east and round trip marks. Although he is only 18, Reedholm has had a great deal of flying experience.

Three Mothers Agree

When mother is tired, nervous or ill the whole home is upset. For her family's sake, every mother wants to be well and strong. These three women tell how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound helps them to care for their families.

Mrs. H. Dolhonde,
6318 York St.,
New Orleans, Louisiana

"Before my last baby was born, I started taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I got such good results that I named her Catherine Lydia. I have six older children and five grandchildren, too. I am now taking the Vegetable Compound again because of my age. I eat and sleep better and I do all my housework, and my washing. I will do my best to answer letters."

Mrs. Harold Goodnow
36 Cane St.,
Fitchburg, Massachusetts

"I cannot praise your medicine enough. After my baby came I was rundown. I had to go to bed often through the day. I took three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I felt like a different woman. If any mother has those tired feelings I advise her to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound."

Mrs. Lloyd R. Blasing,
115 So. Ohio St.,
Anaheim, California

"After my baby came I was so nervous and tired that I felt miserable. One day a booklet was left at our door and after reading it I decided to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I am now on my fourth bottle and I feel much stronger. It has helped me in every way and I feel sure that other women in rundown condition will pick up if they will only take a few bottles."

Could Be Fined For Swimming In 1858

Away back in 1858, the days before the civil war, it was considered an act against good law and order to bath or swim in a stream, within the limits of the then borough of New Castle according to an old ordinance.

Here is what the ordinance says:

"Be it enacted and after June 29, it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to bathe or swim during the day in any canal, creek or public stream within the limits of the borough and any person duly convicted of bathing or swimming will be fined $5 and not more than $10."

Follow Instructions; Condition Of Diabetic May Thus Be Improved

Dr. Clendenning Says Treatment For Disease Will Have To Be Continued Through Life

By LOGAN CLENDENNING, M. D.

First the diabetic patient should realize that with faithful observation of instructions, the diabetic condition will improve. Few cases cure are on record, and in most instances treatment will have to be continued for life. But treatment definitely prolongs life, and makes the condition better.

Second, the life expectancy of the diabetic depends on intelligence and character. The diabetic life is not an easy one; it is monotonous to have to weigh food and be on a diet indefinitely—your doctor realizes that. Those who give up fall. Diabetes is death to fools, faddists, cowards and weaklings.

Third, the patient must know how to calculate diets. A table of all common foods, showing how much carbohydrate, fat and protein each contains is necessary. Such a table is found in all the manuals for diabetic patients listed in my Monday article. The patient must have a small kitchen scale to weigh the food on. In the course of time this becomes so familiar that the weighing can be dispensed with—the patient can tell quite accurately by sight how much a piece of bread, an orange or an egg weighs.

Fourth, how to test the urine for sugar. For this a glass test tube, an alcohol lamp, a medicine dropper, and a supply of Benedict's solution is necessary. Benedict's solution is made up as follows:

Copper sulphate (pure crystallized) 17.3 grams, sodium or potassium citrate 173 grams, sodium carbonate (anhydrous) 100 grams, distilled water sufficient to make 1000 c. c.

The citrate and carbonate are dissolved together in about 700 c. c. of water, with the aid of heat. The copper sulphate is dissolved separately in 100 c. c. of water. After complete solution, the copper solution is poured slowly into the other and mixed with constant stirring.

The mixture is then diluted to 1000 c. c. with the rest of the distilled water. It will keep indefinitely.

To test for sugar put a teaspoonful (5 c. c.) of the Benedict's solution in a clean test tube. Eight drops of urine are added. The mixture is boiled over the alcohol flame. If sugar is present a green or orange cloud (precipitate) occurs. If there is no sugar the mixture remains clear.

The patient must also learn the importance of collecting and measuring a 24-hour specimen of urine. The urine voided after meals should be kept separate. Under treatment the urine voided before the noon meal (the evening urine, M.), that until the evening meal (the afternoon urine, A.); that until retiring (the evening urine, E.) and that after retiring and including the before breakfast voidance (the night urine, N.) should be examined for sugar separately. Thus the particular time or meal when too much carbohydrate has been taken or too little insulin given can be determined.

Fifth, many patients need insulin and must learn how to give it to themselves. It is always given hypodermically by a hypodermic syringe. How to give the injection without causing infection is the essential part.

Sixth, the care of the skin and feet should be learned. Some of the most troublesome complications are boils or carbuncles anywhere on the skin, and gangrene and infection of the toes.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Inherited Disability Best Discouraged

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.

"Eddie can't get his arithmetic. He is a good speaker and a 'whiz' at reading. I guess he was born poor in arithmetic. His father found that subject hard and he has an uncle who says arithmetic was difficult for him."

So said Eddie's mother to his teacher who replied: "No, Eddie does not seem to have a sense for arithmetic although he is bright in every other subject."

Teachers and parents alike pretty generally have the notion that slowness in any particular school subject is inherited. Indeed, a number of psychologists have created this impression. Nevertheless, more recent investigation demonstrates that a child who is bright in several school subjects should not be dull in any particular subject. Of course a bright child may be slow in art or music. His eye may not be able to detect small differences in color; an occasional child is color-blind. His ear may not be attuned to perceive small differences in sounds. Dull hearing or dull vision may handicap a child in any subject, particularly in reading or in spelling.

Barring sensory defects, there is virtually no inherent reason for a special disability in school learning.

If your child is slow in everything at school his slowness may be native. Even then his slowness may be caused by some physical defect which can be corrected. If he is slow only in one school subject, such as spelling, reading, or arithmetic you can assume that his slowness can be overcome.

Never tell a child slow in one subject that he has inherited the difficulty. Persuade your friends and relatives to shun such a suggestion. Beg the teacher of your child to avoid leading him to think he always must be slow in that subject. Work on the theory that he can master the particular subject. Do all you can to help him. Make it possible for him to succeed and celebrate his success with him.

There was a time when most children failing in a single subject had to repeat a whole grade, no matter how well they got on in other subjects. That day has almost wholly passed; and well it has, for to be held back is most discouraging to a child. There is a tendency now to let the child go on and to give him special help in the one subject, in which he has failed.

What can we parents do? We can do much if we are sensible and can exercise adequate self-control. But we can help the child only if we can keep from growing irritated when he makes an error or forgets. We must be sympathetic, patient.

We can go back and back in the particular subject in which the child has difficulty until we find the level at which he can work with accuracy and ease. We must lose sight of grade. No matter what grade the child is in at school, we must go back to where he can succeed. A child of the sixth grade may find third grade reading hard enough for him; a child of the fifth grade may have mastered spelling only to the third grade; and a fourth grade child may need to work on second grade arithmetic. There are now available some very wonderful self-helps in the several school subjects, particularly in arithmetic. Put them into the child's hands.

The important thing is to make the child always comfortable as he works on lower grade materials. Never let him feel ashamed of his difficulties. Never talk to others about his troubles. Make them a secret between yourself and the North Carolina Site Chosen For President's Son

Herber Hoover, Jr., Will Leave Virginia Camp To Live At Asheville

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Herbert Hoover, Jr., eldest son of the President, who is taking treatment for a minor tubercular infection at the presidential camp on Virginia's Rapidan river, will continue his rest cure this winter at Asheville, N. C. The White House announced that he will leave the mountain camp probably November 1 and take up quarters with his wife on property leased in the outskirts of Asheville on Sunset Mountain. Their two children will remain with relatives in Pasadena, Calif., where they are now staying.

A bulletin, issued by Capt. Joel T. Boone, personal physician to the President, said:

"It has been decided that Mr. Herbert Hoover, Jr., will go to Asheville, N. C., later in the fall. The President's camp is not constructed suitably for winter use. This fact necessitates a change of location for the treatment of Mr. Herbert Hoover, Jr. He has leased property on the outskirts of Asheville on Sunset Mountain.

"The United States bounds in many localities climatically favorable to the treatment of tuberculosis.

"This section has been selected as meeting the many requirements of this particular case. Its proximity to Washington will afford accessibility to the patient's family.

"Mr. Hoover has responded gratifyingly to treatment and has shown satisfactory progress."

No Tuberculosis Among Cattle Of Local District

Lawrence Beaver And Butler Counties In Accredited Areas Of Nation

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—Lawrence, Butler and Beaver counties are still included among the counties in the United States that are practically free from bovine tuberculosis, according to the revised list just made public by the department of agriculture which shows that on October 1 there were 1,035 counties classified as "modified accredited areas"—areas in which tuberculosis has been reduced to not more than one-half of one per cent of the cattle population.

These counties approximate more than one-third of the total in the country, a number of these areas having been added since the earlier list of May 1.

Pennsylvania counties accredited as being practically free from bovine tuberculosis now number 32, as against only 29 on May 1.

Systematic testing to remove all tuberculosis cattle is now being conducted by state, county and local officials, in cooperation with the department of agriculture.

MISS REIS TO ATTEND MEETING

Dick Victor's camp, near Ellwood City, will be used by Girl Scout leaders and councilors of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and the District of Columbia, during the training course preceding the regional conference that will take place in New Castle next May. Miss Nance Pugh, New Castle Girl Scout director, announced.

Miss Adelaide Werner, regional director of Girl Scouts, left New Castle yesterday after spending Tuesday and Wednesday here with Miss Pugh making arrangements for the big conference of May 1931.

Many details were discussed and a general outline of the program was made. Final and definite arrangements will be made on November 7 at a meeting of regional officers and state chairman, in Washington, D. C. Miss Elizabeth Reis, New Castle commissioner of Girl Scouts, will be present at that meeting. That will be the first regional meeting of the season.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday, May 8, 9 and 10 will be the training course days for the representatives, at Dick Victor's exclusive camp for boys. It is believed by the local director that 100 girls will take this course. The convention will follow, May 11 and 12, and the sessions will be held at The Castleton. More representatives will arrive for the convention.

Speakers for the convention have not yet been decided upon. Invitations will soon be issued to those whom the regional executives consider the outstanding.

Miss Werner will have charge of the training course, with the new assistant regional director, Miss Jeanne Christie, assisting. Miss Christie previous to her appointment as assistant director, was at the head of the field staff at Pittsburgh.

A feature of the training will be a Brownie course, instructing the leaders and councilors in the movement for Brownie activities, that is, children under 10 years of age.

Many guests are expected to attend training and the convention.

Vagrant Remains In Jail, Forgotten

(International News Service)
NORRISTOWN, Pa., Oct. 17.—Apparently forgotten, a man arrested for vagrancy in Cheltenham township on June 17 has languished in the Montgomery jail since that time. The man is Charles Bergin, 36, of Philadelphia. When arrested, he was held for court and in default of bail was committed to the county jail. There, no transcript of his case having been returned, he has remained with the district attorney's office unaware that he was even in the prison.

Bergin, jail authorities say, has offered to plead guilty to the charge against him but no action has been taken to bring him into court. And they have no authority to release him, even though he has probably served as long as a sentence on his charge would require.

From Washington comes a report that the imported golf ball apparently still holds a lure to many American devotees of the game. Commerce department trade statistics show that 2,550,357 golf balls, mostly of British make, were imported last year.

Tame Crow Attends School With Boy

WINSTED, Conn. Oct. 17.—Mary's little lamb has a modern-day rival in Arthur Comstock's tame crow, which went to school here one day this fall, and sat on the window sill at Gilbert school all through Miss Lola Barnes' class in history, departing with a round of "caws" when the pupils moved to another class room. Jeff by name, the crow visits about the town with evident enjoyment of the situation and seems satisfied to remain tame even when flocks of his kind assemble in great caucuses and scream loudly at him.

"RACKET" VICTIMIZES FRENCH MOTORISTS

(International News Service)
PARIS, Oct. 17.—French motorists are being warned against a new form of blackmail, several examples around the capital. A pedestrian hesitates in the wake of a car and finally finishes by falling in front of it but managing to see to it that he is not seriously injured. The owner of the car of course gets out and offers to take his victim to the hospital. Enroute, the victim between groans, says he does not wish to get the motorist into trouble and promises to say nothing about the accident if he can have a few hundred francs etc. Not a few automobilists have "fallen" for the game and given large sums of money under false pretenses.

Party For Woman 105 Years Old

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Oct. 17.—At least 700 persons called at the home of Mrs. Mary Wieniewski in Everson Wednesday to congratulate her on her one hundred and fifth birthday anniversary. Boy Scouts, who have "adopted" the aged woman and do her chores for her, conducted a birthday party at the little home, featured by the presentation of a cake, which bore 105 candles.

Only Two Autos Were Tagged In County In 1903

Although Early Act Provided For County Fees; Owners Evaded Payment

REVENUE WAS NOT THOUGHT OF THEN

Registration Of Cars Was To Cut Down Reckless Use Of Machines

While the Act of April 23, 1903, provided that prothonotaries maintain lists of automobiles operated in Pennsylvania counties, more than one-third of these counties reported recently to Motor Vehicle Commissioner, Benjamin C. Eynon, that they could find no record of such registration.

In Lawrence county, there were but two machines registered the records reveal. From all that Commissioner Eynon can discover, fewer than 800 "benzene buggies" were registered in Pennsylvania that year.

The first act regulating Pennsylvania automobiles required that prothonotaries register those owned in each county, the fee being $2, and that a license fee of $3 be lived against each vehicle. Fees were payable to the city or county treasurer.

Officials of Allegheny, and Philadelphia counties report to Eynon that they can find no registration record in these counties for the years, 1903, 1904, or 1905. Thirty other counties made similar reports.

Information gleaned by Eynon indicates that long ago, automobile owners sought to evade registration and payment of tax. In Lehigh county, for instance, 98 cars and trucks were registered in 1903 and but 61 in 1904. Other counties reported similar conditions.

law did not have it in mind apparently to tax vehicles for revenue purposes only. The preamble to the Act of April 23, 1903, declared that:

WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions on information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. 7 answers will be given to marital, medical or legal questions, nor will the estimated value of old coins be given.

What are the dimensions of the new Zeppelin dock at Akron, O.? Is it the largest in the world?
The airship factory and dock for the construction and housing of the ZRS-4 and ZRS-5, super-Zeppelins being built for the United States navy at Akron, O., is the largest structure in the world without interior supports. The building is semi-paraboloid in shape and is 1,175 feet long between the center lines of door tracks; its width is 325 feet, center to center, and its height from the floor to the platform at the top is 211 feet. The dock covers eight and one-half acres. Previously the largest hangars in the United States were those at Lakehurst, N. J., and Belleville, Ill.

How many different languages are there in the world?
There are said to be 3,424 spoken languages and dialects in the world, distributed as follows: America, 1,624; Asia, 93; Europe, 587, and Africa, 276. The actual number of languages recently computed by officers of the French academy is put at 2,796. The English language is spoken by more than 180,000,000 people and it is understood and used by 600,000,000 more who do not consider it their native speech.

How are mirrors silvered?
After both surfaces of the glass have been made perfectly smooth, the glass is washed in distilled water and thoroughly cleansed. Nitrate of silver is dissolved in water, to which ammonia is added, and is precipitated by a solution of Rochelle salts or tartaric acid. The glass is placed on warm tables and the solution poured over it. The heat hardens the silver to precipitate and adhere to the glass. The silver back receives a coat of shellac and then of paint or asphaltum varnish containing white lead, which completes the process. For many centuries mirrors were made with a backing of amalgam of mercury and tin, but this process produced an unsatisfactory mirror.

What kind of postage stamp was used in the year 1824?
Postage stamps did not come into use until 1847, when adhesive stamps were first introduced into the United States. On account of the high rate of postage and the provision allowing optional prepayment, they did not come into general use until 1855, when the rates were reduced and prepayment required.

Was there a cross-country marathon derby before the one promoted by C. C. Pyle?
Records do not show any professional cross-country foot race before the first one promoted by C. C. Pyle and in which Andrew Payne, of Claremore, Okla., was victorious.

Penn. Boy is Strongest

"MY son, Joseph, has never been really sick in his life," says Mrs. B. J. Flounders, 5643 Pine St., West Philadelphia.

"He's a young athlete, as you can see from his picture. He's strong and full of life. I give him California Fig Syrup at the first sign of constipation or colds and it keeps him well. It increases his appetite, has helped build him up. I have also used California Fig Syrup myself with benefit for constipation."

To show how California Fig Syrup acts to build-up and strengthen half-sick, headachy, constipated children through giving tone and strength to weak stomach and bowels, nothing could be more convincing than praise like this.

Your doctor will approve the use of this pure vegetable product—as often as an impure breath, coated tongue, listlessness, feverishness or lack of appetite warn of constipation—or to keep bowels from clogging during colds or children's diseases.

When buying, look for the word California on carton and bottle. That marks the genuine.

Morrow Does Not Want To Be Known As Wet Candidate

Dwight W. Morrow, Would Have People Quit Calling Him "Wet" Candidate

(International News Service)
NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 17.—Former Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, New Jersey Republican candidate for the senate, does not want to be classified as a "wet."

The following statement was issued by his publicity department here today:
"Dwight W. Morrow's statement that he inclines to the Democratic party view that national prohibition is not an issue in the senatorial campaign should not be misunderstood. He fully recognizes the very keen interest in the subject and realizes in no uncertain terms his intention to do everything in his power to bring about repeal of the 18th Amendment."

"In adopting this stand Mr. Morrow does not see any justification for classifying him as a 'wet.' He contends that liquor traffic is a problem of government that has not been solved by national prohibition. He recommends abolition of a proven failure and reversion to methods of state control which, after all, constitute the very foundations of this government. In Morrow's opinion this is the only logical first step to correct existing evils under the 18th Amendment."

Former Residents Have Narrow Escape

Mr. and Mrs. George Harkless, formerly of this city, but now living in Newton Falls, O., narrowly escaped death on the evening of October 14, when their automobile was struck by an engine on a New York Central railroad crossing in Newton Falls. According to report, the automobile was carried by the engine a distance of about 50 feet before it was stopped. The car caught on fire but the two occupants escaped being burned.

Mrs. Harkless sustained two fractured ribs and some minor injuries. Mr. Harkless escaped with some bad bruises about the body. Mrs. Harkless is resting as well as can be expected at the home of her daughter Mrs. R. E. Halle in Newton Falls. The automobile was completely demolished.

Foreigners Are Taught English

Classes For Italians, Greeks, And Polish People Are Conducted Weekly

According to Miss Emma Moore, head of the International Institute for Foreign Women on Pennsylvania avenue, three English classes for foreign people are conducted every week at the South Side institution.

On Monday afternoons, Miss Espeidta Marie Abruzzini conducts an English class for Italian people who are interested in learning not only to speak English but to be able to read and write. This class gets underway at 2:00 o'clock. On Tuesday and Friday afternoons at 1:00 o'clock English classes are held for Greek people with Miss Emma Moore as supervisor.

Miss W. J. N. Sroczynska conducts English classes for Polish people on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons. These classes are increasing weekly in number. Through this system of teaching English many foreigners learn to speak, read and write the English language.

Miss Etter Of State College Plans Program

New Home Economics Representative Is In New Castle Planning Rural Groups

MISS PINDER IS AIDING IN WORK

At the present time we are working to organize groups of girls and women in the rural districts of Lawrence county and arrange among them a program of projects such as Home Management, Health and Nutrition work, and Clothing Work. I believe that in a few weeks the groups will be organized and a number of novel and interesting projects will be started.

Miss Dorothy Etter, of State College, newly appointed Home Economics Extension representative for Lawrence and Mercer counties, explains that her headquarters will be in New Castle, but that she will spend every other week with rural groups of women in Mercer county.

Miss Etter was appointed as the representative here, following the resignation of Miss Janice Wrathall, who served in the capacity for several years.

Miss Laura Pinder, a State College representative of the Home Economics department, is spending this and next week with Miss Etter, helping in the organization of the work in two counties. Miss Pinder will return to State College after the work is well started here.

All women and girls of Lawrence county who are interested in forming into groups for instruction in any of the three branches of Home Economics work are asked to get in touch with the new representative, Miss Etter, at the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association, South Croton avenue. Definite arrangements will be made to suit the group members. The meetings will be held at the most convenient places for the various groups—in grange halls, homes or churches.

Women may select the work in which they would like to be instructed. Instruction is absolutely free of charge. Members will furnish their own materials, but this will be very little expense.

Girls from 12 to 18 years of age are eligible to join girls 4H clubs. Work in these clubs will be carried on just about the same as in the groups of older women, who are 18 years of age and over, according to Miss Etter.

Some projects will differ however. The 4H girls will be instructed in clever ways of furnishing and decorating their bedrooms at their respective homes. They will be shown the latest ways of arranging the furniture and means of turning their bedrooms in the most attractive and comfortable of boudoirs.

Older women, who in all probability have charge of their own households, will be shown the methods of household management, from the kitchen to the attic.

Miss Etter expects to conduct from 8 to 10 meetings a week, or 2 meetings a day.

Projects Planned
The following projects are planned for group work:

1. Food selection and preparation (adults or juniors)—demonstrations and discussions on the selection, preparation, and serving of foods, also food values in relation to daily menu.

2. Meal planning, preparation and serving (adults or juniors)—demonstrations, discussions, and actual planning, preparation, and serving of well-balanced meals.

3. Food preservation (adults or juniors)—cold-pack canning and the making of jellies, jams, etc.

4. Hot school lunch—assistance given in starting the hot lunch in schools.

5. Pint jar lunch—demonstrations and discussions with mothers in selection, preparation, and packing of school lunch box. Special emphasis given to foods which can be prepared at home, packed in glass jars, cooled, and then reheated at school.

6. Nutrition and health for children—series of health talks on sleep, fresh air, exercise, milk, water, vegetables, fruits, etc., given to children.

7. Canning and storage budget—discussion with women of the amounts, kinds, and preservation of foods necessary for the winter consumption of an individual, thus giving basis for family budget.

8. Junior bread club—discussion and preparation of different kinds of breads (yeast, baking powder, and soda).

9. Miscellaneous demonstration—

"Minerals and Vitamins," "Salads in the Diet," "Vegetables in the Diet," "The Pressure Cooker Meal," "The Canning of Fruits and Vegetables," "Jams and Jellies," etc.

Clothing—
1. Clothing center—series of meetings with a group of women covering a period of 11 consecutive days. The making of a fitted muslin pattern, application of this pattern in cutting different types of paper patterns, and the making of a dress from one of these patterns.

2. Clothing group (a) demonstration and practical work in cutting undergarments from measure and methods of constructing and finishing the same. (b) The making of a fitted muslin pattern, application of the pattern in cutting different types of patterns, and the making of a dress from one of these patterns.

3. Return clothing center meeting—communities having had clothing work should have a meeting the following year for the purpose of giving new demonstrations and ascertaining spread of interest.

4. Junior sewing club—(divided into three parts)—demonstrations of stitches, seams, plaques, button holes, finished darning, patching how to use patterns, etc. Practical work by girls in making undergarments, nightgowns, mending, hemming table linen and making a midy or over-blouse, skirt and dress.

5. Miscellaneous talks—"The Fitted Pattern," "Line and Color in Dress," etc.

Household Management—
1. Kitchen equipment and arrangement—community meetings with women. Discussion of a well-arranged kitchen and the advantage of such in relation to the saving of strength, time and money. Arrangements are made for home visits and scoring of kitchens.

2. Home accounts—discussions with women on the advisability of and a practical way of keeping home accounts.

3. Home furnishing—discussion with women on the furnishing, decoration and care of homes.

4. Home management—discussions and demonstrations with women on the different phases and problems of home making.

5. Junior "My Own Room" club—discussions with girls on furnishing and care of their own rooms.

6. Miscellaneous talks—"The Convenient Kitchen," "Labor Saving Equipment," "Principles of Home Furnishing," etc.

Miss Etter does not plan to carry out the work in Lawrence and Mercer counties just as stated above, but the work here will include everything mentioned in that outline, and a number of special activities in addition.

Miss Etter has had experience in this line of work, and those who will work with her in this territory will find her of a pleasing disposition that will win her great popularity.

Council Delays Paving Action

Measures Providing For Paving Streets Along Schools Held Over

When city council convened in the municipal building today they took no action on proposed ordinances which provide for the grading and paving of Albert street between Norwood avenue and the city line and paving of Cunningham avenue between Allen and Taylor streets and Long avenue.

They discussed the reported proceedings of the school board which stated that council stood two in favor of the city paying the entire cost, two in favor of a "50-50" payment and one non-committal. Council said the report was untrue.

Minutes of the session at which school board delegates appeared showed that all were in favor of a "50-50" cost but during the conversation, prior to the vote Councilman Reeves had said he would be in favor of the city paying for the entire paving of Euclid avenue.

When the Albert street bill was called up Councilman Treser was asked how many intersections there are. He replied they were numerous and said there was considerable "side frontage." Councilman Burns said: "I do not believe in burdening the people." No action was taken.

The Cunningham avenue bill was brought up. On the suggestion of Councilman Burns it was not discussed except for Burns to report having been informed that should the city pave many of the persons along the street would lose their property. "We can pass it anytime we want" he said.

No action was taken and Euclid avenue was not discussed. An ordinance for the paving of that thoroughfare has been passed but it has been indicated council will not do any more improvement work this season, so the paving problems relating to schools will be carried over until next year.

The school board has adopted a position that it will not bear half of the expense of paving in front of the schools. Attitude was asked by council and was developed at Wednesday's session.

Eleven Liberals Not Registered

McGovern Says Eleven Members Of Liberal Committee Are Not Registered To Vote

PINCHOT BACKER ASSAILS COMMITTEE

(International News Service) PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—Charles C. McGovern, Allegheny county commissioner and a strong adherent of Gifford Pinchot, today declared that eleven of the 23 Pittsburgh members of the "Ways and Means committee" of the Liberal party have not registered and made themselves eligible to vote at the election on November 4.

"Five did not bother to vote for president in 1928, and haven't bothered to vote since," McGovern said in referring to the 23 members of the committee.

Discussing the 11 members who he said had failed to register McGovern declared:

Of these 23 leaders of finances and industry who have undertaken to tell the people of Allegheny county how to vote and have stepped out to lead the army into battle against Gifford Pinchot, 11 of them are armed only with popguns! They will not be able to vote because they have not registered.

"Twelve of these public utility supporters and bankers did not take any part in the primaries last May, at which the candidates for governor were nominated, although five of them were registered and could have voted if they had considered the governorship of Pennsylvania important enough to bother about, as they seem to now."

Forgery Of Names To Note Claimed

John E. McQuiston And Wife Deny Owning John Bellian And Wife $339.25

Forgery of their names to a note for $339.25 is claimed by John E. McQuiston and his wife, Harriet E. McQuiston, following a judgment on the note held by John Bellian and Mary Bellian, his wife.

In court this morning defendants presented a petition to open the judgment and permit them to make a defense. It is claimed by the McQuistons that they do not owe the Bellians anything, and that they never signed the note which the Bellians are attempting to collect.

Judge Hildebrand issued a rule on Bellians to show cause why the prayer of the petitioners should not be granted.

Hileman-Chapman Case Is Still On

The case of Ed. E. Hileman against LeRoy Chapman, which was taken up for trial before Judge James A. Chambers yesterday morning, is still on trial. Considerable testimony is being taken regarding the cost of a building which was erected for Chapman on which Hileman held the mortgage, and also on the account which Chapman had against Hileman.

Hemphill Goes To Johnstown

Gubernatorial Candidate Invades Cambria County Today For Speech At Johnstown

CONTINUES ATTACK UPON HIS OPPONENT

(International News Service) GREENSBURG, Pa., Oct. 17.—John M. Hemphill, Democratic-liberal opponent of Gifford Pinchot in the heated gubernatorial battle, today swung into Cambria county for an address at Johnstown and a conference with Cambria county supporters of the Democrat-liberal ticket.

The youthful aspirant to governorship honors spoke to a mass meeting here last night, attacking in his address Pinchot's claims to an efficient administration of state affairs with figures which he claimed showed that Pinchot had spent far more money than any preceding governor. The Pinchot administration, Hemphill declared, gained an economy reputation by slashing needful appropriations for hospitals and state institutions.

Presents Figures
Hemphill presented figures which he said, revealed that the first three years' expenditures under the Pinchot regime amounted to $365,120.62, exceeding by more than $47,000,000 the amount spent in the four years of the administration of Governor Sprule, which previously had held the highest record.

These figures, Hemphill declared, were furnished by General Edward M. Martin at the request of the general assembly in 1926 when General Martin occupied the post of auditor general.

"Mr. Pinchot called the report of General Martin's a monumental lie," Hemphill continued, "but he was never able to deny General Martin's figures."

General Martin, now Republican state chairman, is in active charge of Pinchot's state campaign.

Verdicts Returned In 3 Court Cases

Damages Awarded To Plaintiffs In Each Case After Trial At Court

In the case of Jennie Whitman against Thomas Maielli, which was tried before Judge Hildebrand, the jury returned a verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $400. The case was one in which damages was asked by reason of an automobile accident.

In the case of Ben E. Nessel against Alex C. Miles, a verdict was rendered in favor of the plaintiff. This case was based on an interpleader in which Nessel claimed goods levied upon in an execution against Ida M. Finnegar.

In the case of D. J. Allison and Son against Charles T. Eastborn, a verdict in favor of the plaintiff was rendered for $1314.12. The case grew out of a claim for work done in stripping at a stone quarry near Elport.

Lee E. Allen Is Granted Patent

Assigns Rights On Novel
Dump Car To Pennsylv-

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent Of
The New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.—Lee E. Allen of New Castle has been granted the patent rights on a novel dump car which he has assigned to the Pennsylvania Engineering Works, the United States patent office announced today.

The New Castle inventor filed application with the patent office for the rights on his device January 2, 1929, and has had to wait almost two years for action by the office. He has been allowed nine claims on his invention.

The patent office describes the dump car as:

A dump car comprising a pot supported by a trunnion having a trunnion gear and rack associated therewith, an air cylinder and piston and an oil cylinder and piston, a source of air supply for operating said air piston, means connecting said gear and pistons, a pipe connecting opposite ends of the oil cylinder, a valve arranged in said pipe for regulating the speed of dumping the pot, and means for by-passing the oil from one end of the oil cylinders to the other around said valve, thereby enabling the pot to be rapidly rotated and bumped in order to remove skulls.

SPECIAL GUARDS WATCH LONDON'S ART TREASURES

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Special guards are now watching over the priceless art treasures in Buckingham Palace and the great picture galleries of London.

The reason is the recent robberies of famous pictures from the collections of the Earl of Minto and other connoisseurs and the belief of the police that the thefts have been indicated by a wealthy, crazy collector who has hired the most expert picture thieves in the world for his purpose.

London detectives point out that in every instance where these robberies have occurred it has always been the most famous masterpiece that has been taken. Furthermore, that there is no market in the recognized art world for stolen world-famous pictures.

No ordinary thief can detect what is a priceless Rembrandt or Rubens, of what is a mere copy.

"There is only one possible theory," says the head of one of London's greatest detective agencies. "It is that these robberies are being undertaken by a madly dressed, beautiful-looking, modern Raffles who not only knows the pictures but is also familiar with the houses in which they have been resting."

"And, also, he must be acting for some wealthy collector who is willing to give almost full value for a masterpiece which, once stolen, can only be hung in a very private gallery."

"Our theory is that there are one or two wealthy Americans—we say Americans advisedly because probably no other people have sufficient money—who are acquiring secret galleries of masterpieces in this manner."

"Their collections may be in New York. They may be in Chicago or somewhere in the Middle West. But we are assured that these people do exist who are ready to give full market price in order to board and gaze secretly at a world's masterpiece."

Choose Names For Two New Ocean Ships

(International News Service)
SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Oct. 17.—Their two giant liners now under construction at Fore River, Mass., will be named Monterey and Mariposa, Matson Line officials have announced. The names are complimentary to two of California's most historical and romantic counties.

The ships are being built by The Oceanic Steamship Company, a subsidiary of the Matson Navigation Co. The present fleet of Oceanic vessels are named for California counties. They include the famous Tahiti rescue ship, Ventura, and the Sonoma and Sierra.

When completed in 1932, the Monterey and Mariposa will be the pride of Pacific Coast ports. Each of the new greyhounds will cost $8,500,000 and will represent the last word in sea-going elegance and efficiency. They will be 632 feet long by 79 feet wide and will accommodate 800 passengers.

Construction of a third de luxe liner, virtually a sister ship of the other two, was ordered by the Matson subsidiary recently.

There is one certain way to get rain, at least it appears to be a morally certain way. Get the car washed. Droughts, long rainless spells, all of them are broken up when a fellow gets his car scrubbed up and a dab of polish rubbed on.

That's the reason for the rain today. After two months of riding in a grimy wagon, had the cleaning folks do their dullest on it, just so it would look good for the game tonight. And what happened. I ask you? You know what happened. Started to rain almost before the job was done.

Listened of a rather unusual lecture Thursday evening. Unusual because it was so totally different from the usual run-of-mine lectures. It was on "Witchcraft," delivered by a gentleman who has made a hobby out of studying the history of witchcraft since the days of the 13th and 14th centuries.

It is the opinion of the speaker Dr. Theodore Diller of Pittsburgh that there is still a belief in witchcraft, not only among the illiterate but among people who should know better. For witchcraft is not only the belief in witches and goblins and evil spirits, it comes down to obsessions concerning present day things.

How many people do you know who won't walk under a ladder? Who fear to spill salt or break a mirror, or have 13 at the table? Or go places on Friday, or take the third light off a match? Relics of witchcraft all of them, a lineal descendant if you please, of the days when ladies who were accused of being witches were seasoned in boiling oil, or were the guest of honor at a necktie party.

Dr. Diller, himself an ethical practitioner of half a century, refuses to worry over quacks and quack remedies. "As long as humans are guided by their emotions just so long will we have quacks and quackery," is his idea, for his reasoning is this: Humans are emotional beings, more than they are reasoning beings, and quackery depends upon the emotions of the gullible.

The old gentleman has gone into the subject thoroughly and showed a series of lantern slides as a part of his lecture. Most of them seemed to be a collection of old wood cut prints, with his Satanic Majesty featured in most of them.

Witches riding to the Witches Sabat on sows, goats and broom sticks were plentiful, and the age old struggle of Evil against Good was shown in several slides that were not unfamiliar. St. Michaels slaying the dragon, the weighing of the human soul, all old subjects and all of them interesting.

From every indication available, it looks as though the football fans who go to Taggart field tonight are going to see a game as is. The Woodward high school of Toledo is supposed to have a real honest to goodness team, big and fast and strong, and there'll be no suggestion of the hippodrome tonight.

It will be the first real test of the season, an answer perhaps to the question, "what kind of a team have we?" The previous games were seasons, with perhaps Aliquippa standing out as the stronger of the four, but tonight the gladiators are going to get some real meat.

You never can tell about an outfit like this Toledo team. They're just liable to take the home boys for a ride, and if they do, the cheering ought to be just a little stronger than usual. Anybody can cheer a winner, you know, but the real sportsman is rooting for his team without considering the score.

Aside from the game there will be a service that is going to honor one of the genuine friends of football in New Castle—John Cannon Taggart. Not alone football, but all clean sport had him for an advocate. A true gentleman, a thorough Good attendance marked the first day of the Evangelistic Mission, being conducted by Captain Robert T. Becker and Cadej Walter M. Becker's subject at the Mission service last evening was "Christ Know-

Electric Current For Surgeons Knife?

(International News Service)
VIENNA, Oct. 17.—Electric current is to replace the old fashioned surgeon's knife. Operating by electricity, i. e. the use of an intensive diathermy current for the separation of tissues will remodel surgery, according to Professor Anton Eiselsberg, the world famous Vienna surgeon, who has introduced the "electric knife" in Austrian clinics.

The greatest advantage of the new method is its coagulating effect, owing to which the operation becomes almost entirely bloodless. Next to it is mentioned its disinfectant effect with consequent healing by first intention. Its haemostatic effect and easy handling makes the electric knife, above all indicated for operations on deeply seated organs and resection of ribs and other bones. More than a thousand cases, operated upon "electrically" show that on the brain and the gastrointestinal canal electrocoagulation is unsurpassed, and opens a hopeful prognosis for the most severe cases. Electric scission proved also to be of great value in the treatment of cancerous and tuberculous diseases.

How to Draw Comics Like Mine—By George McManus

*World-Famous Cartoonist Puts Experience with Life and People Ahead of Pen and Drawing Board as Comic Artist's Tools ---
Cites Own Rough
Road to Success Before Creating "Bringing Up Father"*

"Ideas are the big things. There is no substitute for ideas, and the only way to get them is through contacts with people and places and things. Some of your contacts must be through books, but you'll find that your most productive ideas flower in the garden of humanity."—George McManus.

"Know as Many People, Great and Humble, as You Can," George McManus suggests to the Aspiring Comic Artist. He's Shown Here with Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, "the Great" of Women's Tennis. Every Acquaintance Adds to the Artist's Stock in Trade.

By GEORGE McMANUS,
World-famous creator of "Bringing Up Father."

THE drawing board and pen are the least important tools of a successful comic artist. That many persons who draw exceedingly well have failed to make good in comic art is proof of this seemingly paradoxical statement.

Most important of all factors in a popular comic strip is the artist's knowledge of people and places and things. He must go beyond his own stratum, and often beyond his own inclinations, to acquire contacts with life that are essential to his art's development.

Had I known and realized this at the start of my career I might have saved myself a lot of grief. I would have been able to avoid many mistakes, including one that almost stopped my career at its commencement.

Shortly after I went to work for the St. Louis Star—I still was under twenty-one, and refuse to accept responsibility for what I did in those days—I started a comic called, "Alma and Oliver." It was a mess, and I live in constant fear that someone will dig up those old strips and haunt me with them.

"Alma and Oliver" dealt with the trials and tribulations of a young couple. Never having had any trials and tribulations other than those that the average schoolboy encounters, I often fell back on the device that many uninitiated artists use: the adaptation of current jokes and situations. Naturally this limits the appeal of a comic to those persons who are not already familiar with the gags. "Alma and Oliver" died, as such things will, without adding anything to my reputation.

When I came to New York I started to get the kind of experience I needed—contact with life in general and the lives of other people in particular.

In St. Louis I had lived at my father's home. In New York I lived in a boarding-house, and I suppose a boarding-house is about the best school there is for studying people. They come and go—young and old, ambitious youth and futile old age, single and married.

It chanced that among the roomers in the house where I stayed there were several young couples—newlyweds. It was these couples who furnished the background and material for my first comic sensation, "The Newlyweds." Quite appropriately, it was some time later that the title of this comic was changed to "Their Only Child." I can see now why it was successful—I had material taken from life—material that was original.

In the intervening years I have learned a lot about people—society folks, newspapermen, laborers, tramps, professional men, philanthropists, mechanics, technicians, actors, actresses, brokers—on through the whole list of individuals, and including types of many races.

A Trip to the North Pole Isn't Necessary to Being Funny About the Arctic as Jiggs Demonstrates by Wandering Into a Humorous Situation Among the Eskimos.

Not all the artist's experience need be personal. For instance, I've never been to the North Pole, but I was able to get a lot of fun out of Jiggs' experiences among the Eskimos.

To learn enough about Arctic conditions to give my drawings the touch of reality that is needed in all fanciful creations, I read thousands of words about the Eskimos and the polar regions, and studied scores of illustrations of these people, their homes and costumes.

The ambitious artist must remember that among his readers there will always be some persons who are "experts" on the subject he is touching, and if they find flaws that aren't covered by the requirements of humor, they will crab to their friends about the comic. Just let a small handful of persons start crabbing your act in any audience, and it is going to be difficult to put yourself across.

If you want to send your characters on a trip around the world you must get close to Baedeker or one of the other authorities on strange lands. Books are experience, just as much as having your hand cut off in a buzz saw is experience, and certainly much less painful.

The comic artist must know people individually, however, for two reasons: First, to add to his repertoire as many interesting observations about character and personality as possible; second, to find out how individuals react to humor.

Without knowledge of the first, your comics are likely to become monotonous in their characterizations. Without the second your comics are likely to reach only a limited audience.

That last point is important. You wouldn't expect Babe Ruth and Mary Pickford to laugh at the same things with identical appreciation of the various points. Babe might smile at the joke about which Miss Pickford would chuckle for hours; and she might not raise a chuckle about a joke that would send the babe into ecstasies.

McManus is More Enthusiastic Than Musical on a Saxophone, but This Experience Gave Him a Lot of Ideas for New Jokes.

Golf May Not Seem Important as a Part of an Artist's Training, but George McManus, Shown Here About to Tee Up a Ball, Regards All Sorts of Experience as Essential to the Success of Comic Art. "You Can't Develop New Gags by Reading About Things," Expresses His Attitude.

You have to please both these people. Perhaps you can't get a laugh out of each of them every day, but if you are able to give each of them a humorous tidbit that will tickle them clear through a few times a week, and something that they can see might be funny to the other fellow the rest of the time, you will find that your work is registering on the success side of the ledger.

But bear this in mind—you won't find a side-splitting situation in every experience, or a hilarious character in every person you meet. You will find suggestions for humorous situations very often. You'll have to shift your characters around, perhaps, and you'll have to have imagination enough to figure out what MIGHT have happened.

Let me tell about an incident I have never had an opportunity to use in my strip.

I was attending a wedding of one of my very intimate Jewish friends. A rabbi of the Reformed Hebrew Church was officiating at the ceremony, and he carried it off without a hitch; yet I nearly burst out laughing thinking of what might happen.

In the course of the ceremony the rabbi was holding the wedding ring on his little finger. As he was reciting the ritual marriage lecture, he constantly pushed the little platinum band against the joint of his finger. What nearly made me burst out laughing was the thought that an embarrassing situation would develop if the ring were to become jammed on the rabbi's finger and he was unable to get it off when the moment came to slip it on the bride's finger. I watched for that to happen, but it didn't.

That is the way gags and jokes are often born. Certainly you'll get more suggestions for new situations by getting out and mixing with people than by sitting at home over the drawing board.

Ideas are the big things. There is no substitute for ideas, and the only way to get them is through contacts with people and places and things. Some of your contacts must be through books, but you'll find that your most productive ideas flower in the garden of humanity.

To be funny, get out and mix. Another time I'll tell you about some of the more technical phases of humor and the development and polishing of ideas.

Making the Romantic Gondolier Look Like an Organ Grinder Is One of the Examples of McManus' Devices for Heightening the Humor of the Situation He Is Drawing.

Monument Sanction Granted In 1892

Monument Has Been Cleaned And Spotlights Illuminate It At Night

Memory flits with time but records on file at the city hall show that the monument in the east park of the Diamond was erected by the Lawrence County Soldiers Monument association. An ordinance granting the association the 20 feet square was passed September 14, 1892. Last summer Councilman Genkinger had the monument cleaned and spotlights now illuminate the monument at night.

According to the ordinance the permission was granted to the association for the purpose of perpetuating the names of the men of the citizen soldiers, enlisted in Lawrence county, who fell, or died from disease in defense of the Union in the war of the Rebellion. The plot granted is 20 feet square.

Lovely hair!

Modern hair dressers add beauty to your hair by graceful lines and contours. It is just as important to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant, rich in color.

Millions of girls and women are doing this at home with the easy help of Danderine. It is so simple to use. All you do is put a little on your brush each time you arrange your hair.

Instantly Danderine brings out the natural color of dingy, lifeless hair; makes it more sparkling and lustrous than brilliantine; makes it easy to manage; holds it in place.

The consistent use of Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; stops falling hair; tends to make the hair grow long, silky and abundant. Five million bottles used a year!

6,500,000 Rivets Hold Framework Of New Dirigible

Construction Of New U. S. Air Liner Is Stupendous Task

(International News Service)

AKRON, Ohio, Oct. 17.—At least 6,500,000 rivets are going into the construction of the airship Akron, the first of two giant fortresses of the sky that are being built here for the United States navy.

And an outstanding feature in the driving of these millions of rivets into the duralumin framework of the ship is that it is practically a noiseless operation.

The dirigible Akron, when completed and steered on end, would approximate an 80 story office building. The din that would attend the driving of rivets into the structural steel of an 80-story skyscraper would very likely be the noisiest building operation imaginable, but driving rivets into the skeleton of the Akron is vastly different.

Aluminum alloy riveting is done by a squeezing process. The rivets are squeezed into place by hand instead of pounded with electric or air hammers.

The squeezing device resembles nut crackers, with handles about 18 inches long. The ends of the heat-treated rivets are compressed. One rivet at a time is squeezed and one squeeze to a rivet is sufficient. All of the rivets used in the framework of the Akron are about 1-8 of an inch in diameter.

Seven main frames and 18 intermediate frames of the Akron are now in position, representing 525 feet of the ship's total of 785-foot length. The contract with the government calls for the completion of the Akron in the Spring of 1931.

Drama Classes To Present Plays

Six One-Act Plays Are Selected For Westminster Students

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa. Oct. 17.—Under direction of Professor A. T. Cordray, director of the Little Theater, the class in acted drama at Westminster College has planned six one-act plays to be presented in the near future.

Those scheduled for production include: "The Little Stone House" by George Calderon, directed by Paul Gamble; "Sharon," "Finders, Keepers," by George Kelley, directed by Mary Nicholson; "Worthington," "Time Will Tell," by Conrad Selter, directed by Helen Conn; "Suppressed Desires," by Susan Glaspell, directed by Helen Cushman; "The Dear Departed," by Stanley Houghton, directed by Helen Blaha, New Castle; "Trifles," by Susan Glaspell, directed by Fred Blaha, New Castle.

In addition to these one-act plays by the class in acted drama, the Masquers fraternity will produce a number of full-length plays in the Little Theater, the freshmen and sophomore classes will produce a number of plays, and the annual junior class play for the benefit of the Argo will also be staged. This will give Westminster another large schedule of plays in which students may get valuable experience.

Last year 16 performances of 10 plays allowed 62 students to participate. With additional equipment from seven states—Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma and Texas.

Rocky Mountain Park Visited By 250,000

(International News Service)

ESTES PARK, Colo., Oct. 17.—Visitors from every state in the union, from Alaska, Europe, Asia

Africa and South America, totalling more than 250,000, visited the Rocky Mountain National Park during the 1930 season, according to figures released by Edmund B. Rogers, superintendent of the park.

Superintendent Rogers' figures show that 253,874 persons in 73,103 automobiles visited the park during the past season. Of this number 84 per cent were found to come from seven states—Colorado, Nebraska, Kansas, Missouri, Illinois, Oklahoma and Texas.

Fifty per cent of the visitors to the park traversed the Fall River-Milner pass road, the highest road in any national park. This road attains an elevation of 11,797 feet above sea level.

The largest day's travel this year was on Sunday, August 31, when 4,307 visitors arrived in 1,192 cars.

The Rocky Mountain National Park is the largest national park in Colorado and the seventh largest in the national park system.

Too much ACID

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 50 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine, prescribed by doctors for conditions due to excess acid. It is always a liquid; it cannot be made in tablet form. Look for the name Phillips' and the word genuine in red.

Pinchot Again Attacks Policy Of His Opponent

Gifford Pinchot Appeals To People To Help Defeat
Dollars And Cents

SAYS HEMPHILL IS BUYING HIS OFFICE

(International News Service)
HUNTINGDON, Pa., Oct. 17.—Swinging up through the Juniata valley, Gifford Pinchot, Republican nominee for governor, left here today to cover three more counties in his campaign swing, appealing to farmers of the region to roll up a great majority for him to "prove the governorship must be won by a sound program rather than by money."

The Republican nominee, in speeches yesterday at Middletown and Lewistown, unleashed new attacks on the liberal party and "Philadelphia gangsters" who, he asserted, are supporting John M. Hemphill, his Democratic-liberal opponent for governor.

At Huntingdon Pinchot was joined by John A. McSparran, Democrat, who was defeated for the governorship by Pinchot in 1922. McSparran urged upstate Democrats to join with Republicans in voting for Pinchot for the governorship.

Attacks Fund

Discussing the proposal of liberal party adherents to raise a $500,000 campaign fund, as reported from Philadelphia, Pinchot said: "That's notice to you and me they're going to attempt to buy the upstate vote. The upstate vote cannot be bought. These men realize the importance of the upstate counties in deciding the election, but they are going about it the wrong way to win these counties. "What they need is a sound program," he continued, "they think they can swing some wards in Philadelphia that way, but they cannot do it elsewhere."

Representatives of business who have pledged support to Hemphill were described as "exploiters who have always lived off the people unfairly" by the Republican nominee.

Issue Clear-Cut
The issue is now clear-cut," Pinchot asserted. "If I go back to Harrisburg, Charlie Hall won't be governor and W. W. Atterbury won't be governor. Pinchot will be governor and no one else."

The Republican nominee expressed appreciation for the statement, made to Centre county Republican committee last week by General Edward Martin, Republican state chairman, that no fair public utility would object to Pinchot's program.

McSparran, in a speech here last night, criticized Hemphill and the liberal party as being insincere in their stand on the prohibition question and said the Democrats, in attracting support from the Philadelphia Republican organization, are "drawing from the slums of Philadelphia, which I and every good Democrat resent."

Pinchot today will cover Fulton, Bedford and Somerset counties in his tour.

Postpone Date For Opening Of Air-Rail Line

Transcontinental And Western Air Company To Operate
Planes October 25

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 17.—E. W. Smith, vice president of the Pennsylvania railroad with which the Transcontinental and Western Air Company is affiliated today announced that postponement until October 25 of the air company's first flight through Pittsburgh has been necessitated by delay in the installation of four radio stations.

Erection of the radio stations at Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Camden and Newark has been made necessary by revised plans for the air line, latest plans calling for the planes to carry passengers as well as mail.

The initial service planned provides for trans-continental mail and passenger flights on a 36 hour schedule, including an overnight stop at Kansas City.

Inauguration of the transcontinental route will mark America's first all air mail and passenger service extending entirely across the continent. Operating time will be 12 hours faster than the present coast-to-coast passenger service.

School District Finances Adjusted

Commission Reports On The Wayne-Ellport Muddle Following Formation Of Ellport

R. K. Mattocks, Tad Shields and George B. Wilson, commission appointed by the court to adjust the differences between Wayne township and the borough of Ellport, so far as it related to school matters, filed their report with Judge Hildebrand this morning.

The commission found that when the borough began to operate in July, 1929 the assessed valuation of land in Wayne township and Ellport stood as follows: Wayne, $678,410; Ellport, $339,265. Of half that of Wayne. The proposition before the commission was to determine what proportion of the assets each school district should receive, and what proportion of the liabilities of the former Wayne township, from which Ellport was taken, each should assume.

They found that two thirds of the assets should go to Wayne and one third to Ellport, and of the liabilities Wayne township should assume two-thirds and Ellport, one third.

After going fully into the details of the real and personal school property by each division, the commission concluded that the borough of Ellport owes Wayne township, $111,130. The bonded indebtedness against the former school district of Wayne was $11,500, consisting of 4 1/2 per cent bonds. It is recommended that in lieu of cash, the borough of Ellport assume this bonded indebtedness.

Rebuild "Old Main" Hub of Penn State Campus

For more than seventy years "Old Main" has been the traditional "life center" of the Pennsylvania State College. For over thirty years it was the only academic building on the campus. During the past year it has been rebuilt and the beautiful edifice, headquarters for student activities and the college administration, is to be dedicated on Alumni Homecoming Day, October 25, as the closing event in celebration of the 75th Anniversary of the College Founding. The weathered limestone in the walls of the old structure was used in rebuilding. The tower of white stone is illuminated every night.

McBride post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, which was to have been held at the home of Jack LaRue on the East Brook road this evening has been called off. Members of the corps will meet at the Legion Home association building to discuss further plans for meeting in the future, the corps being forced to abandon their former meeting place at the armory, which is now being used as a skating rink.

ELLWOOD CITY HIGH GRIDDERS TO CLASH WITH GROVE CITY

Tubers Hope to Salve Defeat Of Last Saturday
By Triumphing
Tomorrow

According To Reports, Frisk
And Cunningham Have Resigned From Local Squad

(By TONY PASTA)

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 17.—Tomorrow afternoon will find the Ellwood City High gridders at home with Grove City as their opponent.
The Tubers suffered a defeat at the hands of Beaver Falls last Saturday and hope to avenge this by winning over the Mercer County eleven.

Prospects for a victory, however,
are not any too bright for the blue and white. Frisk and Cunningham have not reported for practice this week and rumor has it that they have resigned from the squad. Ingle has placed Sheeler at fullback and Condi and W. Pander at the halfback posts.

Little is known about Grove City this year but they must have a fairly good team as they held the strong
New Castle aggregation to a 24-0 score at the beginning of the season.
At any rate the visitors are coming here with high hopes of a victory.
This is their third trip here and have lost on their first two trips.

At the beginning of the week Ell-wood's gridders seemed to be out of form and still felt the effects of the battle with the fierce tigers last week. Ingle has made the best of the situation and has been especially attentive to Condi and W. Pander in order that they will be in shape.

ELLWOOD CITY, Oct. 17.—Memjoyed a Hallowe'en social Thursday liant array of color and games and contests formed the program.

Paul Robinson Gives Lesson In Drawing The Feminine Figure

HOW TO DRAW THE FEMININE FIGURE

First draw a skeleton in the desired position. Then surround it with a body outline. Then sketch in the clothing and details.

(This is the sixth lesson in the national cartoon contest of Central Press.)

By PAUL ROBINSON
Creator Of "Etta Kett"

Above are a few hints on drawing the feminine figure. An important fact I have tried to bring out in the sketch is this: Always strive for grace in drawing the figure of a woman.

The "skeleton" at the left — the first sketch to practice — is as graceful as the completed figure on the right. Why? Because of three reasons:

1—The figure is walking on its toes. 2—The arms, bent at the elbows, are gracefully swung. 3—The head is carried with a jaunty air.

If the skeleton drawing were that of a man you would make the back foot flat and the toes pointing upward instead of down on the forefoot. The arms would be swinging in a straight line. The head would be set on the neck solidly, the jaw pointing more down than forward.

It is these little touches which you must always bear in mind that enable artists to give the drawings of their girls a life-like grace. Practice making these graceful lines and you will be surprised how soon you will be able to draw figures that really look life-like.

Alumni Joining Westminster Body

Over 100 Have Joined New Organization During First Week

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON Pa. Oct. 17.—More than 100 alumni of Westminster College have sent in membership dues in the reorganized alumni association, the Westminster College Society, during the first week of the membership campaign.

Dr. S. E. Calhoun, president reports. The society has mailed copies of the newly-adopted constitution and by-laws to the 2,000 alumni and former students of the college. Letters have also been sent, and the various districts chapters of the society are being organized by members of the committee on local chapters, headed by Clark Wiggins, Butler.

The campaign for membership will continue throughout October. H. T. Getty, New Wilmington, treasurer of the society, stated yesterday. At the end of the month it is thought by those in charge that at least 1,500 alumni will be enrolled.

Part of the plan of contact with the alumni will be the mailing of the Holiday, student weekly, to each alumni enrolled. This will necessitate a special alumni page in the student paper and will increase the circulation considerably.

Seven To Take Law Examinations

Mercer County Youths Will Seek Admission To Bar Of County And State

MERCER, Pa., Oct. 17.—When the state board of law examiners meets in Philadelphia and examinations are held in Pittsburgh next December there will be seven law students from Mercer county take the bar examination for admission to the bar of the supreme court, and the bars of the court of common pleas and orphans court in Mercer county. Among this number will be one woman, Elizabeth O. Whiteman of Greenville and six men: Frederick W. Williams, Leo C. Madden, John Robert Boland and Thomas Frederick Hyde, all of Sharon, and two from Farrell—Fred Jarrett and Samuel Chichecarino.

FARM BUREAU MEETING
There will be a meeting of the farm bureau in the farm bureau office of the court house on Friday evening. All those who are interested in entering livestock in the farm products show to be held at Harrisburg in January are to be present so that the number to be sent from this county can be determined and plans made for the shipping of the cattle.

TO TRY CASES
The trial list for common pleas court has been completed and there are 60 cases on the list. The list is now closed and ready for publication in the papers.

SHERIFF TO SELL LAND
There will be 57 tracts of land offered for sale on next Monday, October 20, by Sheriff D. K. Callahan. This is one of the largest sheriff sales to be held in Mercer county for many years. Of this number there is but one property from Mercer and that is the property owned by Joseph Buntman, local junk dealer, who went bankrupt about a year ago.

222 CASES LISTED
One of the largest number of transcripts ever filed for a term of criminal court is the one that is now filed for court this month. There are 222 transcripts filed now and there will no doubt be more. The number of pleas have greatly reduced the number that are to come up for trial and there will probably be about 10 cases to bring before the grand jury when it convenes next Monday.

TO SELL BOOTLEG CARS
Sheriff D. K. Callahan will hold a sale of confiscated cars on Thursday, October 23, at Sherrick's garage in Mercer. The cars have been taken in liquor arrests and some of the cars are in very good shape. There will be five cars sold at this time.

ENTERTAINS
Mrs. E. L. Sherrick entertained a party of Pittsburgh friends at a luncheon Friday afternoon at her home on Erie street. Among the Pittsburgh guests was Mrs. Frank McParland, who will be the guest of Mrs. Sherrick for the rest of the week.

Denver Man Loses False Teeth In Raid

(International News Service)

DENVER, Col., Oct. 17.—A raid staged by police on Denver beer joints resulted in police finding nine quarts of beer and 72 "empties" while this result pleased police, their pleasure cannot be compared to that of a Denver citizen who was responsible for the raid. He found his teeth.

A battered citizen ran into police headquarters complaining that he had gone to a beer joint for refreshment and had received instead, violent abuse. Two policemen accompanied the irate customer to the scene of his humiliation.

Nine quarts of beer and 72 empty bottles were found on the premises and two men were placed under arrest.

The but instigator of the raid was not satisfied. He mumbled "gimme a flashlight." With an electric torch in hand he roamed over the ground in front of the house, wandering as far out as the curb. Suddenly he focused the beam into the street and gave a cry of joy. He stopped and retrieved a glistening white object, brushed it off and put it into his mouth.

"OK," he said, "let's go. I just wanted to get back my teeth."

Bible Christianity Retains Divine Power Declares Rodeheaver

(Special To The News)

PARIS, France, Oct. 17.—"Bible Christianity still retains its divine power of renovating individual lives and of transforming society. This miraculous puissance remains, despite attacks made by rationalists of the Mencken-Darrow school, despite more indifference engendered by the war, and despite moral carelessness provoked by too much prosperity which followed the war."

Such was the assertion made by Homer Rodeheaver, choir leader for the Rev. "Billy" Sunday, during the course of an interview in the Hotel Continental in Paris. Mr. Rode-heaver had just come from Oberammergau, where he witnessed the Passion Play. He plans to sail in October for New York, where he will take up his new duties as poplarizer of the best, authentic American music, with the National Broadcasting company.

"Bible Christianity," declared Mr. Rodeheaver, who has "sung" this type of Christianity to audiences the world over for the past 25 years, "has surmounted worse crises than the present one; it is eternal, despite attacks (which it would be futile to deny), it continues its triumphant march down the corridors of history. It is still a throbbing, vital force in American life.

"When the present wave of amateur atheism and superficial agnosticism has subsided, Bible Christianity will still be on the job, as pleasant as ever, making lives purer, better and nobler. Of course, it may have to change some of its methods. The old-time evangelistic meetings served a beneficent and useful purpose in their day. But the radio has come, and it is a mighty force which Bible Christianity is using intelligently, and to advantage. In the hands of men like Dr. Cadman, radio has become a mighty instrument for persuading men to live the abundant life."

Editor's Note—It will be recalled that Mr. Rodeheaver accompanied the Rev. "Billy" Sunday when the latter conducted an evangelistic campaign in the city of New Castle in the year of 1910.

The colleges must be sadly crowded if they admitted all of those who solicited magazine subscriptions to pay their way.

Rhodes Says Big Fill On Perry Highway Well Worth Trip To Swamp

W. V. Rhodes of North street, who has just returned from a visit to the big fill at what is known as Custer's swamp on the Perry highway, east of Greenville, says that little apparent progress is being made in filling the swamp. It is estimated that the work is costing the state $1000 per day.

Among the stories told Mr. Rhodes is one about a truck which had been left standing on the road where earth for the fill is being dumped. It sank out of sight and probes showed that it was soon 17 feet under ground. Trucks are hauling gravel on both ends of the quarter mile stretch where the road completely sunk from view.

The work was begun on August 15th under a contract for a definite number of yards to fill. The work was seemingly going nicely. Nearly all of the fill had been made and a solid roadbed had been built across the marsh. Indeed, trucks and cars had been using it steadily. But almost overnight the material sank from view—and has been sinking ever since, since the middle of September.

Over a portion of the once-roadbed there now has curled tons of black muck, forced up from beneath by the weight of the fill. Along side of the earth has been forced ten feet higher than the normal level, and great crevices have split deep into the soil.

Over another part of the once-roadbed is a neat rectangular lake, a yard deep in most places and said to be 20 feet deep at the northern end. Here the fill has sunk from view, its place taken by water coming from the earth. This lake is approximately 300 yards long.

How deep this marsh is no one seems to know. Reports of various tests are unconfirmed, but the one most generally heard is that solid bottom was reached 90 feet down. No appreciable gain has been made at the north end of the lake, observers say. At the south end some 30 feet of bed has been gained in three weeks—but residents say that this may disappear overnight with a heavy rain. It is reliably reported that the fill here sank a foot while the truck drivers were eating lunch.

The spot where the fill is being made is the narrowest in the swamp, according to engineers. The swamp runs practically from Conneaut Lake to Cochran, a distance of about 14 miles. In this distance there is a fall of about ten feet, accounting for the marshy condition.

Persons familiar with the swamp say that the fill might have sunk even if the old route of the Perry highway, about a mile east of the fill, had been followed. A road has existed for years across the marsh only a few feet from the fill, although the traffic was never heavy. The earth formation, as revealed by the upheavals, is peculiar. Apparently there is a shallow layer of clay and loam on top, with many feet of rich, black, only slightly damp soil underneath. Beneath this black soil probably is considerably water, judging by the amount collecting in the fill.

The marsh this year is the driest in perhaps a lifetime, residents say, which probably accounts for the fill remaining for nearly a month. During the freshest periods of the year it is not unusual for the center of the marsh to be covered with five to ten feet of water.

Many suggestions, from the use of slag for the fill to the construction of a suspension bridge, have been offered. One plan would call for an interwoven layer of 40 or 50 foot logs, 200 or more feet wide, to provide some support for the fill.

Mr. Rhodes says that thousands of people have visited the fill and that it is well worth seeing.

HIGHLIGHTS OF HISTORY

By J. Carroll Mansfield

23. Daniel Boone—The Captives

WHEN AN INDIAN SUDDENLY BOBBED UP BE-SIDE THEIR CANOE AND BEGAN TOWING IT TO THE OPPOSITE SIDE OF THE KENTUCKY RIVER,
BOONE'S DAUGHTER AND THE CALLOWAY GIRLS WERE TOO FRIGHTENED TO RESIST OR CALL FOR HELP.
THEIR TERROR WAS INCREASED WHEN THEY SAW FOUR MORE INDIANS WAITING ON THE BANK.

AS THE BOW OF THE CANOE TOUCHED LAND, ROUGH HANDS SEIZED THE GIRLS AND DRAG-

THEY WERE LED AWAY SWIFTLY BY THEIR SAV-AGE CAPTORS THROUGH THE SILENT FOREST TOWARD SOME DISTANT INDIAN VILLAGE.

AT SUNSET, WHEN THE GATES OF BOONESBOROUGH WERE CLOSED, THE GIRLS WERE MISSED AND A SEARCH WAS BEGUN. BOONE FOUND THE GIRLS'
CANOE AND THE TELL-TALE TRACKS ON THE SHORE, BUT THE COMING OF DARKNESS PREVENTED AN

Meader, left guard, 40.

One of the best games played this season is expected to be enacted tonight at Taggart Field "under the floodlights" when the New Castle high school undefeated football eleven meets Woodward High of Toledo. The kickoff whistle is scheduled for 8:00 o'clock.

The local grid machine in meeting Woodward is clashing with a schoolboy team ranked among the best in Ohio and it promises to be a real acid test to the local W. P. I. A. L. contenders. Coach Ronald Bevan, who arrived this morning with one of the best high school football squads seen here in a long time, stated that his boys are in great condition for the contest and said he feels confident that his team will administer the first defeat of the year to the Bridenbaugh coached eleven. The biggest crowd of the season is predicted to watch tonight's contest.

Acid Test For Locals

The game tonight should show exactly what the power of New Castle is against a team which ranks among the best in Ohio. The locals to win must play real honest to goodness football. In the first three games Woodward succeeded in downing two elevens which were champions in their district; and losing to Rayen.

Some local fans who saw the Rayen-Woodward contest claim that Woodward should have won the contest. A fumble cost them the game. The visitors in defeating Port Canton, 1929 Lake Erie conference champs, 20-0 and Kenton 1929 Central Ohio champs 69-0 demonstrated that they have a strong offensive team.

The Ohioans possess a lineman who is ranked among the best schoolboy gridders around their section. "Deacon" Jeeter, nephew of the once famed Harry Wills, will be seen at right tackle and the fans should get a treat in watching this human dynamite in action. This griddler is 6 feet 4 inches tall and on the scale he weighs 240 pounds. New Castle it is said will have to stop this boy in order to accomplish anything. On the line he is a tower of strength and in every game this season has proven trouble to his opponents. The remaining of the line which consists of Kelly, and Friedman at ends, Schneider at center, Michalak at the other tackle posts, E. Meader and Fetzer at guards stands up as a line which is difficult to penetrate.

The local line with Ciccone and Jamison at ends, Askounes and Crisi at tackle, DeCarbo and Mike at guards, and Hoese at center is expected to put up a great battle on the line. It will fall upon these eleven local gridders to break holes through the visitors line so that the backfield men can perform successfully.

There will not only be a football game but a contest in wits between the two coaches from both institutions, namely Coach Phil Bridenbaugh and Coach Ronald Bevan. In the past three years Coach Bevan has produced a team that has opposed New Castle. In the first New Castle-South of Youngstown game in which New Castle was defeated, Bevan was coach. Last season he placed a team representing Rayen against the locals and Bridenbaugh evened up the count between the coaches.

This year Bevan brings another team to face Bridenbaugh's prospects. Can Bevan outsmart Bridenbaugh or vice versa? This will be another question which will be settled. The red and blue eleven from Toledo will be followed by its school band and close to 600 fans from their home town and many others from Youngstown according to reports.

Coch Bridenbaugh when interviewed concerning his starting lineup stated that he would use the same eleven boys who set back Aliquippa several weeks ago. This lineup will consist of Ciccone and Jamison at ends, Schneider and Askounes at tackles, Hoese at center, DeCarbo and Mike at guards and in the backfield Thomas will again do the plunging at fullback, Captain McAuley after an absence of one week will again bark signals and Fabian and Lasky will be found at halves. The final rehearsal for New Castle was held on Thursday night under the floodlights. Coach Bridenbaugh pronounced his gridders physically fit for the contest. He stated following the workout that he feels that his boys will give the Ohioians plenty of opposition.

THEY CAN HAVE IT

May Uncork New Plays
Fans may see several new plays unworked and they may not. Coach Bridenbaugh has for the past week drilled his prospects through a series of new plays. When he expects to use them is not known. If the locals are in a tight pinch one of the plays may be used.

Having conquered over the first four teams on the schedule the New Castle high red and black jerseyed boys will be in their eager to top the fifth contest of the season which will boast their stock high in Western Pennsylvania and Ohio schoolboy circles.

According to Faculty Manager Ralph H. Gardner the advance sale of tickets anticipates the biggest crowd of the season tonight at the local football stadium. The six ticket booths will be swung open at 7:00 o'clock, with the kickoff at 8 o'clock.

Four Survivors In Golf Tourney

Woman Golfers Enter Semi-Final Matches Today—
Glenna Collett Favored

(International News Service)
LOS ANGELES COUNTRY CLUB, Cal., Oct. 17.—Two thrilling golf matches loomed today as the four semi-finalists in the women's national championship prepared to battle for honors over the north course of the Los Angeles country club. Glenna Collett, four times champion and present defender of the title, will tee off with "Billie" Hicks, 19-year-old Inwood, N. Y., girl in one of the matches. So far Miss Hicks has been running rough shod over her opponents and perhaps showing the most brilliant form of any entrant in the tournament.

The second match will bring Mrs. Opal S. Hill, the Kansas City medalist, and Miss Virginia Van Wie of Chicago together. This, too, should be a great contest.

Glenna Favored.
All of the semi-finalists have been there or thereabouts when championship honors were distributed in recent years. Last year Miss Collett and Mrs. Hill reached the semi-finals, and the former played thru to the championship.

Miss Van Wie was the runner-up in 1928, while Miss Hicks was put out in the first round last year by Miss Maureen Orcutt. The long-driving New York girl recently won the championship of her own state, although she has never yet been able to win national honors.

Mrs. Leona Pressler of San Gabriel, gave Miss Hicks a hard battle in the quarter finals yesterday, but the New York girl ended the match on the 17th hole, playing four under par to that point and winning, 2 and 1.

Official average announces today show that Al Simmons of the Athletics defeated Lou Gehrig of the Yankees for the American league batting championship with an average of .381 to .379.

Woodward, which plays Ne-Ca-Hi at Taggart Field tonight was runner-up to Toledo last year, according to reports received here. Toledo is greatly interested in the clash here.

Nick Polis of Aliquippa who fought many times here last night stopped Lloyd Clements of Swissvale in the ninth round at McKeesport. Polis sent a blow to the jaw and it spelled dreams for Clements.

The town is agog over the Carnegie Tech-Notre Dame game Saturday. When Knute Rockne said he expected Tech to win by eight touchdowns he was probably kidding. Tech followers believe it is an even bet. Opinion here is varied.

Helen Hicks faces Glenna Collett present champion and Mrs. O. S. Hill meets Virginia Van Wie in the semi-finals of the Women's national golf championship at Los Angeles today. All four won their matches yesterday.

Twenty Grand won his richest stakes, worth approximately $25,000 at Churchill Downs.

An oil pipe line nearly 140 miles long is to be laid in Mexico.

Woodward Eleven Ends

JOE FRIEDMAN WILLIAM KELLY

Among the eleven gridders in the Woodward High school football eleven which meets New Castle here tonight will be these two pigskin catchers who have made a creditable showing this season for the visitors. They are Joe Friedman, right end and William Kelly, left end who will be watched with interest in the contest tonight.

Three Intersectional Grid Battles Feature Schedule For Saturday

Notre Dame Meets Carnegie Tech In Newly Erected South Bend Stadium

Wisconsin Meets Penn At Madison, Wisconsin—
Missouri At New York U

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Like crusaders of old who clinked their armor marching on the enemy to test their brawn and skill, six groups of college football warriors pounded suits of mole-skin today as they promised to do or die in three intersectional tilts high-lighting Saturday's card.

Notre Dame meets Carnegie Tech at South Bend, Pennsylvania tests the powerful Wisconsin machine at Madison and Missouri comes to New York to clash with New York University in three games that should stir mightily on heartstrings of the nation's sports populace.

Notre Dame-Tech.
Knute Rockne's South Bend eleven gets the stiffest trial of its extremely tough schedule in the unbeaten Tech eleven. The encounter will align the bludgeoning attack of Carnegie, based on mere man power, and the shifty, change of direction play of the Irish. Game after game, year after year, the downfall of Notre Dame is forecast and Carnegie Tech has been selected as this year's most likely conqueror of Rockne's squad. But despite the tremendous driving power of the Tartans' veteran aggregation, we look for another Notre Dame triumph.

Line defense is said to be Rockne's chief worry on Saturday and he has done a little gill dobbing in spreading the gloom but his forwards have crested such emergencies, imagined and real, before and it hardly seems possible they will fail to click for him in this all-important battle.

Penn Vs. Wisconsin.
Penn invades Madison with a team reported one of the sweetest machines in Red and Blue history but, unfortunately, still without a severe test such as it will find against the Badgers. Captain Dick Gentile of the Penn team is ranked as one of the speediest backs in the country and is backed up by three stalwart innamasters, Gette and Greene.

Wisconsin has shown unexpected power this season and early games have forecast a great scoring eleven. If the Badgers have moulded to their full strength at this stage they should offer the invaders a thrilling fight.

Missouri-New York.
Missouri comes to the Isle of Manhattan boasting two d'cents and hardly anything further. Coach Chick Meehan has been telling his shrinking Violets that these poses were only bad breaks for the mid-westerners and that Missouri will trot out a fighting eleven here. Mr. Meehan understands that Colorado and St. Louis scored on Missouri merely through the accident of bad passing from center and that all this has been completely corrected ere now. But just to be contrary the general opinion is that Missouri has a weak line and a weaker backfield and that the game should furnish nothing more than a background for a brilliant afternoon by Bob McNamara, a new backfield star of the Violets.

Although Notre Dame appears to have demonstrated the loss of several veterans in the line was not as severe as shouted about through its defeat of Southern Methodist, one of the really good teams this fall. Carnegie's dream of victory lies in the hope that Rockne's line replacements are too inexperienced to stop the plunging veterans of the Tartan backfield. Kavel, Arcis, Eyth and McCurdy, bolstered by such experienced ends as Rosenzweig and Flanagan, offer an offensive characterized as the best Judge Steffen has ever built in his long career at Tech. They may tear some big holes in Notre Dame's line.

There is no argument that Tech has a superior eleven on paper. The Tartans, with few exceptions, are experienced, hand picked players, carefully coached and moulded. Notre Dame has Carideo and Joe Savoldi, the wonder back from Three Oaks, Mich., heading its stars and in addition a great host of average players, far less experienced as individuals and in team play than the men of Tech.

A decided advantage for Tech would be a wet field. Under such conditions Tech would plough down the field in rushes much more easily than Savoldi could break away in those sweeping end runs which took care of Navy so handily last week.

Lots Of Passes.
Deprived of chances of Savoldi getting away on such runs, Notre Dame could elect an overhead attack and quite likely whether the field is wet or dry Rockne is going to use a heavy barrage of lateral, forward and back passes against the Engineers.

It is not just idle gossip that Rockne and Notre Dame, from its entire alumni down to the greenest first year enthusiast are still smarting under the surprise defeat handed the Irish a few years back by Tech. They were willing to go "on a diet" as far breaks of the game are concerned in the rest of their schedule if they can get a wink from lady luck this Saturday. Rockne has no doubt instilled his men with a fighting spirit that is 99 percent pure for this clash and a victory would be as sweet as defeat was bitter when Tech snatched that win and robbed Notre Dame of a national title.

P. M. Harris of Acton, England, has grown a flower of vivid blue, resembling a small sweet pea, from a seed 3,500 years old, taken from the tomb of an Egyptian Pharaoh.

Slippery Rock To Play St. Francis

Slippery Rock Teachers Tackle Strong St. Francis Team Saturday Afternoon

LORETTO, Pa., Oct. 17.—Fresh from their 2-0 victory over the heavy Rider college team of Trenton, N. J., Gene Stringer's gridders of Saint Francis College are anxious to tackle their next opponent, Slippery Rock Teachers on the latter's field on Saturday afternoon.

The Lorettoans invaded the western-state territory in their initial game at Grove City on October 3, and were handed a 21-0 setback by the team that they had tied for City scored all its points in the first half. Last Saturday at Johnstown, the Lorettoans repeated the scrappy playing displayed during the last half at Grove City by stopping the two-year winning streak of the Rider College team. Rider boasted a deserved gridiron superiority over many class B colleges until Valunas, team blocked one of their punts, the ball rolling over the goal line and out of the playing zone for a safety. The Saints' line proved its fighting ability by holding the Trenton team on the one-yard line for downs.

This week's contest at Slippery Rock is not considered an easy one. The Teachers' 14-0 win over Waynesburg and their 50-0 walk-away with Clarion prove that they have strength and scoring ability. Coach Stringer is anticipating a real fight from the Teachers, and is priming his players for such.

Union-Rayen Are Battling Today

This afternoon at Scotland Lane at 3:45 o'clock the Union high school football team tackles the fast Rayen High Reserve team. Coach Boyd is confident that his charges can take the measure of the Youngstowners.

Union High lost a good lineman the other day when Sniezek, was forbidden to play by his parents. Coach Boyd has planned to use Stockman in place of Sniezek. A change has been made in the backfield that puts L. Augustyn at quarter, Jaworski and Monico at the halves and Captain Augustyn at fullback.

Bessemer Clashes With Scienceville

Teams To Start Game At 2:30 P. M. Saturday On Scienceville Field

Bessemer and Scienceville clash Saturday afternoon at Scienceville. It will be the third game of the season for Bessemer. The contest will start at 2:30 p. m.

Coach Fredericks has been driving his team hard all week and may have to start his aggregation without Stanley who received a sprained wrist when Bessemer won from New Wilmington last week. While Bessemer beat Lowellville and the college town high school Scienceville won from Union, one of the strongest teams in the Lawrence County Class B loop.

Westminster Ready To Battle Grovers

Coach Beede Hopes That Titans Can Defeat Crimson And Regain Confidence

Titan Backfield Men May Invade Grovers Goal-Line First Time This Year

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Oct. 17.—There were no injured men on the Westminster college squad as they ended strenuous preparation yesterday afternoon for the important game with Grove City Saturday afternoon. More than this despite the one-point set-back at the hands of Allegheny, the Titans were in good spirits.

On paper the Crimson is three or four touchdowns better than the Blue for the 32nd game between the old rivals. But Grover-Titan games have always had a way of resolving themselves into classic encounters, and Bob Thorn has planned to sell all available space except the canoe parking areas in the nearby river in order to accommodate the crowd.

Lineup Remains.
Beede will not change his lineup from that which started against Allegheny. This includes Cebula and Tweedy at the ends, Fuller and Uram at the guards, Rehfs and Armour at the tackles, Captain Boone at center, Michaels at quarter, Shaffer at left half, Hamas at right half and Perrin at full. But Haldy may see action in the backfield, alternating with Hamas, Morrison, Cleland, Oddi, Kozicki and Dishong will all be available for the line. Elmer Meider, Pittsburgh flash, will not be available for end, it is thought, for at least two weeks.

Westminster has relied to date on straight football. The passing attack of the Titan team has been negligible because of lack of capable receivers. As a result, Beede has been drilling the men all week on off-tackle plays which resemble very much those used by Pitt. Since Grove City's air attack is as good as the capable running attack of Kammer, Pusch and company, Beede has drilled the men in defensive tactics of all kinds this week.

Westminster has an opportunity of tying up the records this week. If the Titans win Saturday, the games will stand 16-up between the two rivals since 1893. But the Grovers have the decided edge and Westminster goes into the game the under dog, but with spirit and determination that augurs a close contest.

Wills' Nephew In Game

Fans who witness the New Castle-Woodward football contest tonight will see one of the best linemen in Ohio in "Deacon" Jeeter, who plays right tackle for the Ohio eleven. This griddle who is a nephew of Harry Wills, noted boxer, tips the beam at 240 pounds and is 6 feet 4 inches tall. According to dope New Castle will have to stop this griddle if they expect to achieve anything. He is one of the outstanding members of the visiting team.

THE DECISION

The court held with Dilhooly. The judges reasoned thus: The original transaction was forbidden and illegal. Nothing having occurred since to make it valid, the seller could not regard it as sufficient consideration for a promise to pay.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Volume Of Stock Trading Is Light

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—A selling wave which was ready for the market at the first tap of the opening gong depressed prices of the speculative leaders in the early trading today and wiped out much of the ground gained during the week. The volume of trading was light, indicating indifferent buying demand rather than a rush to sell stocks in big blocks.

J. C. Penny was a weak spot in the mercantile stocks, dropping off 6 points to a new low for the year at 38 1/2. U. S. Steel at 148 1/2 showed a loss of 2 points from yesterday's close and Westinghouse moved off 2 1/2 to 111 1/2. The Rails and Utilities were inactive rather than weak, but in all of the principal shares the trend of prices was downward. New York Central lost more than 3 points.

Texas company and Standard Oil of Indiana followed Humble Oil in price-cutting on crude in the Texas pan-handle, and Oil stocks as a rule settled down to a lower price level. Texas corporation sold close to the year's lowest price and losses of a point or more were recorded for the best known Standard and Independent Oils.

The Amusement stocks and specialties surrendered most of yesterday's new ground as the result of persistent selling in the second hour. The Coppers were weak in this period, with American Smelting losing 3 points at 52 1/2. Johns Manville lost 4 1/2 points. U. S. Steel in this period was forced under 148 and American Can lost 2 1/2 points at 116 1/2. Call money was unchanged at 2 per cent.

NOTRE DAME AGAIN HAS FIRST CLASS GRID OUTFIT

Here are some of the players who make up the latest edition of the Fighting Irish of Notre Dame. In these boys Coach Knute Rockne—and a lot of other people, too—believe Notre Dame has another great team. Tom Conley, in layout above, is captain.

Leslie Discovers What Is Used To Make Hootch; You'd Be Surprised

One of the mysteries not yet solved by the scientists of the world is "what goes into restaurant hash." Now comes a new query. What goes into home made hootch? Even more baffling has been this query, although several times it was thought that the ingredients had been identified. Some of it bore a strong resemblance to benzene, others had the exotic aroma of crank case drippings, while still others insisted that it was the essence of gum boots.

Here's the answer, at least to one of the brands, and the answer was arrived at only after long and patient search by that eagle nosed hound, Constable A. Sharpe Leslie.

Corn.
Corn sugar.
Rain water.
Potato peelings.
Peach pebbles and stones.
Prunes.
Plug tobacco.
A stray parsnip.
A bottle of flavoring, (pedigree unknown, but tasted like vanilla).
This apparently was being manufactured for the more discerning trade. For the consumption of the vulgar populi or what is sometimes known as the vulgar mob, nothing near as much detail would have been gone into in the preparation of this casked varnish. Some corn and corn sugar, with a spot or two of iodine for coloring would have done nicely, but for the cognoscenti, ah, the dear old cognoscenti, one must exert himself and the gentleman whose possession the above mentioned ingredients were found was a careful workman.

Glancing over the list, one can easily imagine the flavor and authority of the potion after it was done. One can easily imagine a lad taking a healthy snifter of it and then trying to set fire to the Shenango river.

Or thing of the courage it would inspire. One shot of it and the shotee would sass a traffic cop, which you'll agree takes courage of an unusual order.

It's a delicate task, distilling for the cognoscenti, and perhaps the artist (residence county jail) in whose possession was found the makings, will feel hurt that his recipe is thrown open to the world.
As to the amount of time required to distill, or when and how to serve it the directions. Mix well with a double barreled shot gun, stir with a 38 calibre revolver, and serve with a Spanish poniard.
If Socrates were still alive today, that hemlock would taste like nectar, compared to the stuff being manufactured and sold as liquor.

Habit gets a fellow. Many a father who worked his way through college is now working his boy's way through.—The Lexington Leader.

When you consider the number of women who lay down the law, isn't it rather queer so few of them take it up?—The Louisville Times.
